Service Director Styert Dies of Heart Attack

CITY OFFICIAL STRICKEN AT HOME SUNDAY

Found Dead on Bedroom Floor by Nephew; Had Kept Heart Affliction a Secret.

WAS POLITICAL VETERAN

City Hall Flag at Half Mast Today; Funeral Services to Be Wednesday.

An acute heart attack yesterday removed from Mansfield's civic and political scene one of its most conspicuous figures, Tracy C. Styert, 54, city service-safety director and for many years a member of city council. His death occurred at his home, 269 Newman street.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Finefrock mortuary at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Found Dead In Room.

Mr. Styert had just finished shaving and had gone to his bedroom to dress at 9:30, when Earl Green, a nephew who makes his home with the Styerts, heard him fall. He rushed to the upstairs room and found his uncle lying on the floor. A physician was summoned but Mr. Styert was dead when he arrived.

While he had been in apparently good health and had never mentioned a heart condition, members of his family learned after his death that his physician had told him almost a year ago that his heart was affected.

Worked Early and Late.

As head of Mansfield's service and safety departments, he had been working unusually hard this summer. It was not unusual for him to be at his office at 5 a. m. and many nights he worked until midnight. Saturday night he was still at work in his office in City building at 10:30. He was to have been in Columbus today for a conference on a sewer rental problem with Margaret Allman, state welfare director. The appointment was kept by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and officials from the city engineer's office.

Mr. Styert had been a prominent and respected worker in

If You Haven't Registered, You Can Do It Friday

With the primary election written into the records, the county election board will receive registrations and transfers of voters starting Friday for the November election or a special election on the Mansfield school bond issue if one is held.

The new registration period will continue until 28 days before the Nov. 8 election or five days before any special election date which may be set, Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the board said.

Persons who are not registered or who have not voted in the last two general elections will be required to register to vote in November, Underwood pointed out. Voters who have moved since the last election must transfer he said.

HEARING SET

Ashland Carpenter Gets New Date For Civil Service Fight.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The hearing of M. L. Hetsler, Ashland county, on his complaint that he was discharged as a carpenter employed in division 3, state highway department, for political reasons, was rescheduled today by the state civil service commission for next Thursday in Ashland. Originally it was set for Aug. 4.

KILLED AT PLAY

Boy, 7, Fatally Injured By Hit-Skip Auto Driver.

LIMA—(INS)—A hit-skip driver ran down and fatally injured John Kerstner, 7, today as he played in a country road in front of the farm home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kerstner, north of Lima. John died en route to a hospital. Only the boy's playmates witnessed the accident.

Seek Second School Bond Vote Sept. 20

Board Meets In Wee Sma' Hours; Arlin Goes to Get State OK.

Ready to submit its proposed $550,000 school bond issue to the voters again, the Mansfield board of education today asked the state tax commission for permission to hold a special election on Sept. 20.

The board's resolution, passed at a special meeting at 7:30 a. m. today, was taken to Columbus two hours later by H. W. Arlin, president of the board. Arlin said it was possible the board would have the commission's answer this afternoon.

The proposed bond issue, which was voted down by a slight margin at last Tuesday's primary election, would supplement a $450,000 PWA grant which already has been promised. Voters, however, must approve the bond issue by Oct. 1 or the school board will not be permitted to use the federal grant for building purposes this year.

Must Be Under Way Jan. 1.

PWA officials explained that all projects approved in 1938 must be in progress by Jan. 1, 1939. Approval of the bond proposal by Oct. 1 will be necessary to get work started by that time, they said.

Board of education members expected the actual granting of the federal government's share of the building cost announced Saturday to measurably increase the chances of the bond issue passing at a special election.

"With the two relief levies out of the way and no other ballots to claim voters' attention, we should be able to put the bond issue over this time," Arlin said today.

Official count of the votes cast at last Tuesday's primary showed today that the bond issue fell 408 votes short of enough to give it the 65 per cent majority. It's majority was slightly more than 60 per cent.

The official vote was 5,546 for the bond proposal and 3,576 against it.

PLAN NEW HOP

German Ocean Fliers to Make 'Round World Flight Soon.

BERLIN —(AP)— The record round-trip flight to New York by the German airliner Branderburg may be followed soon by a 'round-the-world flight.

An air ministry spokesman admitted that another long distance flight was planned, but said "no information about it will be divulged in advance."

Air General Erhard Milch, welcoming the fliers upon their arrival Sunday, said that "I have reason to believe Field Marshal Goering (air secretary) will place a fine machine at your disposal for further flights whenever you wish and wherever you wish."

Milch said it originally was planned to make the New York flight a 'round-the-world attempt, but the idea was abandoned when the plans of Howard Hughes, American globe circler, became known.

Principals In New York's Racket Trial

He Accuses . . .

Racket-buster Thomas E. Dewey, crusading district attorney of New York, cracked down on the $100,000,000 policy ("numbers") racket by indicting nine men. Dewey, Republican, was elected in 1937 on a "reform" ticket, is being mentioned for governor.

Mr. Hines of a Link to . . .

Big shot of the nine is James J. Hines, powerful Tammany chieftain, who is accused of providing political protection and acting as "front man" for the racket. Hines rose from a blacksmith's anvil to district leader and the inner circle of the Wigwam.

Late Dutch Schultz and . . .

The policy racket used to be run by gang chief Arthur Flegenheimer alias Dutch Schultz alias the Dutchman, who was killed by gangster bullets in 1935. Prohibition made him a big shot; after repeal he organized New York's policy ring.

DAVEY TO BE AN INDEPENDENT?

Report Says He Wants to, But State Election Offcials Say Law Won't Let Him.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Political adherents of Governor Martin L. Davey reported today he was considering running as an independent candidate for governor, but the secretary of state's office said it was "impossible" for the executive, defeated in last week's primary, to get his name on the ballot.

Informants in the Davey camp said the governor last week told John Nolan, Steubenville Democratic leader, and Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, of his intention to run. These sources said Davey was dissuaded but later again insisted he would run independently against Charles Sawyer, who defeated him in last week's Democratic primary, and John W. Bricker, the Republican nominee for governor.

The Cleveland News in its first edition today said Davey might make the announcement in his weekly state-wide broadcast tonight. Shortly afterward, it became known Davey had cancelled the broadcast.

George Neffner, in the secretary of state's office at Columbus, said it was "impossible" for Davey to have his name on the November ballot.

He cited section 4785-69 of the state code which says:

"No person who seeks a party nomination for an office or position at a primary and fails to receive such nomination shall be permitted to become a candidate at the following election for the same office by petition."

Governor Davey could not be found immediately for comment on the report he might run or on the radio time cancellation.

BURNED BY SHOCK

SPRINGFIELD—(INS)— Donald Cottrell, 30, Toronto, O., an employe of the Ohio Edison Co., today miraculously survived contact with a 6900-volt electric conductor at the Mad River plant. However, he was critically burned.

Davis Who Said 'Guilty' . . .

Schultz's mouthpiece was J. Richard Davis alias Dixie Davis, a debarred lawyer charged by Dewey with having taken over the lucrative policy game, with others. Davis was arrested in Philadelphia last winter; with him was show girl Hope Dare.

After Visit to Hope Dare.

First intimation that Davis had turned state's evidence came when he was discovered visiting his girl friend, Hope Dare, in her New York apartment, presumably with Dewey's knowledge. Court orders had permitted him to visit his doctor.

Sonny Beaten In Second Heat, But Has Great Time

Mansfield Soap Box Derby Entrant Scores Victory In First Trial; Thrilled By Three Big Days.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS
(News-Journal Staff Writer)

AKRON—Loren (Sonny) Wiley, of Mansfield, after flashing through a sparkling first round was eliminated from the fifth annual All-American Soap Box derby finals staged here yesterday in the second round.

Sonny, Mansfield champion, won his first race easily, finishing a car length ahead of his nearest rival as he negotiated the 1,100-foot concrete ribbon in 29.70 seconds.

But in his second trip down the course an hour and a half later, Sonny was nosed out by a car's length by Doyle Bracewell, Des Moines, Ia., champion.

However, Sonny was undaunted by his defeat. Like a true champion, he smilingly congratulated his conqueror and then watched the rest of the races from the grandstand along with some 100,000 persons who lined the derby course.

Omaha Boy Wins Title.

Fourteen-year-old Bobby Berger of Omaha, Neb., became the 1938 all-American champion of the "greatest amateur event in the world," when he zoomed across the finish line in 28.74 to eliminate Richard Ballard, White Plains, N. Y., brother of last year's national champion, in a "photo finish."

In the International race, Berger defeated Buddy Stroop, of the Panama Canal zone, to win the

THUGS GET $50

Hold Up Filling Station, Rob Attendant; Flee on Foot.

Police today were hunting for two gunmen who walked into a filling station at 201 Park avenue east, shortly after midnight last night and robbed the attendant of $50.

Police were told the two men entered the rear door of the station and with their hands in their pockets ordered Fred Conner, 131 South Diamond street, to "give us your money and don't cause any disturbance."

Conner told officers that one of the men opened the cash register and then both left by the rear door. He said they ran north on Foster street.

SURVEYS DAMAGE FROM HURRICANE

Coast Guard Starts Check Of Louisinia Area.

MOBILE, Ala.—(INS)—A survey early today by coast guard communication trucks revealed only slight damage was wrought by the hurricane which swept inland near Lake Charles, La., a radio report received here said.

The trucks, ordered to the storm area by the coast guard, reported that first indications were that only slight damage had been done to the wind-struck region.

A plane from the Biloxi air base probably will fly over the entire gulf coastal region today if weather permits.

STEAMER SINKS

French Vessel Goes Down After Striking Submerged Mine.

GIBRALTAR —(INS)— The 459-ton French steamer Artois sank last night after striking a submerged mine 35 miles southeast of Gibraltar, according to a wireless message from the German steamer Thereas Russ today.

The Artois' crew of 14 took to the lifeboats and was rescued.

RAIN'S ON WAY, RELIEF IN SIGHT

Drop From 90-Degree Level Due When (and If) Showers Come.

There's relief in sight for that "dragged out" feeling which is the result of hot weather, if the weather man is right in his forecast.

Showers are promised for tomorrow with a drop in temperature. Yesterday the sun continued to burn up grass and fields as thermometers went to 90. During the night they dropped to 72, but shot upward early this morning, reaching 90 again at noon.

In spite of last week's rain, many lawns and flowers over the city showed the effect of the hot weather and are now in urgent need of rain.

HELD IN SLAYING

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — Arrested in his cottage at Lake Milton, a summer resort, Louis McMunn, 46, today was held in Mahoning county jail in connection with the fatal shooting of Emanuel Herniz, 45, sheriff's deputies said.

BLUE RIBBON JURY TO TRY RACKETS CASE

Hines, Tammany 'Good Fellow,' Goes to Court Today on Policy Game Charges.

DEWEY PUSHES FOR SPEED

N. Y. Gangsters Who 'Sang' Go on Stand as Witnesses for State's Cause.

By EDWIN C. HILL
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — "The people against James J. Hines!"

It has a strange sound, that. The very idea that the docile saps whose only business was to vote as they were told and make enough money to keep the boys in wine, women and a little song, should have the incredible gall to turn on a regular fellow like Jimmy Hines, hang a criminal indictment around his neck and hale him to the bar of justice—why the thing is almost unbelievable. People didn't used to act that way.

But they did today, for Hines went to trial this morning, in room 148, in supreme court on an indictment of 13 counts which charges that he became associated with "Dutch" Schultz and the policy racket in March, 1931, and continued to receive $500 to $1,000 a week thereafter until late in 1937.

Lawyer Also On Trial.

Martin Weintraub, a lawyer who once was associated with "Dixie" Davis, is being tried jointly with Hines. But public attention in this case where murder lurks in the shadows is fixed on the big, jovial figure of James J. Hines, so long a power in Tammany hall.

It is entirely possible Weintraub's case will be disposed of before the day is out, though District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey refused comment.

The first business of the court today will be to commence the selection of a jury from a blue ribbon panel of 300 talesmen, a panel which included some very well known persons, including E. Roland Harriman. Hines' lawyers fought hard to sidetrack that blue ribbon panel, but Dewey won out, and the panel should supply a

9 DIE IN CRASH

Fog-Delayed Plane Falls Into Harbor in Rio De Janeiro.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)— Nine persons were killed when an airliner fell into the Rio de Janeiro harbor today shortly after taking off on a flight to northern Brazil.

Five of the victims were passengers and four were members of the chew. Their identities were not immediately available.

The transport, operated by the Condor Syndicate, crashed near Ilha Do Governador, an island in Rio de Janeiro bay.

Cause of the crash was not known. Heavy fog had delayed the take-off two hours.

DREADED SCHOOL

Youth, 14, Found Dead In Barn, Hanging From Beam.

PAINESVILLE—(INS)— Coroner James G. Powell today said that John Sesu, 14, found hanging from a beam in the barn of his parents' farm, southeast of here, committed suicide because he dreaded the reopening of school next month.

Stricken Director

Death today had removed from the city administrative staff one of its best known members, Tracy C. Styert, 54, city service and safety director, who died of an acute heart attack at 9:30 a. m. yesterday at his home. He had been a prominent political figure in Mansfield for more than 20 years.

HITS VALIDITY OF INDICTMENTS

Ashland Attorney Enters Plea in Abatement; Charge Against One Dropped.

ASHLAND — Charges against one of the four persons indicted by a special Ashland county grand jury were dropped today, as the other three opened a fight on the validity of the indictments at their arraignment.

The four were indicted last Monday on charges that they solicited civil service employes, some of them in the state highway department, for contributions to Gov. Martin L. Davey's campaign fund, contrary to law.

Those indicted were I. R. Ault, highway division engineer; R. O. Parrott, Bucyrus, assistant engineer; Don B. Soles, chief mechanic, and Morgan Fitzpatrick, clerk.

At arraignment before Common Pleas Judge C. C. Chapman today, charges against Parrott were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Attorney F. D. Schell, representing the defendants, then entered pleas in abatement for the other three, attacking the validity of the indictments. The four had been charged in a blanket indictment, one count against Parrott, one against Ault, nine against Soles and 26—13 each on two indictments—against Fitzpatrick.

Schell contended that separate indictments should have been returned. The defense has 10 days in which to substantiate its attack on the validity of the grand jury's action.

SCALDS FATAL TO TRAIN RIDER

Youth, Suffering Intense Pain, Begs To Be Shot.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Steam scalds so painful they caused him to beg a railroad employe to shoot him today had caused the death of Thomas Costlow, 25, of Louisburg, Ala.

Cotlow was scalded by steam in the tender of a locomotive pulling a train from Buffalo to Cleveland. He was found, almost fainting from pain, by Jerry Beranek, a railroad employe who climbed aboard the train after it was reported that a man was seen on the tender when the train passed through Erie, Pa.

Beranek said that when he found Costlow the youth begged:

"Shoot me! Shoot me! I can't stand it."

COUP RUMORS STIRRED BY 'ARMY GAMES'

50,000 Reservists Assigned to Posts on Czech Border Just as 'Routine.'

NAZIS HIT 'ALARMISTS'

Claim Troop Maneuvers Being Carried Out Under Plan Known for Months.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — German army maneuvers, officially described as "smaller and more scattered than in previous years," got under way in the eastern regions of the reich today as European capitals seethed with rumors of some projected new nazi coup.

Germany's enture officialdom deprecated all such reports as the work of professional alarmists and insisted the army games were being carried out along lines conceived and announced many months ago.

Scoff at Anxiety.

The nazis declared themselves at a loss to understand the tension caused by the maneuvers, pointing out that other European armies have embarked upon identical military movements in recent weeks without precipitating any international anxiety.

The first batch of reservists scheduled to participate in the maneuvers approximating 50,000 men was distributed rapidly in Glatz province and other areas abutting on Czechoslovakia.

Another 50,000 are expected to take the field before the end of the week. Conscription of transportation of all kinds, including farm horses, trucks and wagons, is proceeding apace. The country's entire military resources will be utilized in one manner or another, but there is absolutely no reason for international alarm, officials declared.

'Keep Close Watch.'

Nevertheless, foreign military attaches, including those of the United States, are keeping a close watch on developments for any possibly war-like intensification of the preparations. There is no question that Germany will be in an advantageous military position for any emergency during the next few weeks.

Coincident with the maneuvers, work on Germany's western fortifications proceeded at top speed.

PRESS OUSTER

UAW Foes Ignore Peace Plea, Urge Martin's Removal.

DETROIT—(AP)— Opponents of Homer Martin, led by four expelled officers of the United Automobile Workers of America, proceeded today with plans to seek his removal as president of the big CIO union.

They laid the ground work for their campaign in a week-end meeting at Toledo and will return to that city next Saturday to further arrangements which they hope will lead to a special convention of the International union.

The "rebels," saying that presidents of 75 UAW locals were present, rejected a proposal by Walter Reuther, president of Detroit's west side local, that John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization, be asked to intervene to restore harmony between the union's Martin and anti-Martin factions.

KINDLY THIEF

Robs Sleeping Driver of $49 But Puts $4 Back.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Police today were searching for the considerate thief who robbed A. L. Stager, Bluffton, O., of his pocketbook while the victim slept in his parked truck. Apparently overcome by remorse, the thief left $4 of the $49 in the wallet, and gently replaced it in Stager's pocket.

The victim slept peacefully on.

CABBIES STRIKE

1,000 Philadelphia Drivers Quit Jobs In Wage Dispute.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A strike of 1,000 Yellow Cab drivers today left only approximately 100 taxicabs operating in the city.

They were the cabs of independent companies, unaffected by the Yellow Cab drivers strike called at dawn by the A. F. of L. Taxi Drivers union for a renewal of a guaranteed minimum wage.

Bright Spots!

Dispatches From Business, Industrial Centers Point Way To Recovery.

DETROIT—(INS)—Henry Ford called back an estimated 23,500 workers today to wind up production of 1938 model cars.

The recalled production men are expected to continue work on 1938 models several weeks.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—"It seems probable," Col. Leonard P. Ayres said today, "that the bottom of this renewed depression was reached in June."

Writing in the Cleveland Trust company's monthly business bulletin, the Cleveland economist declared: "The present improvement in business is unmistakable, but it has not lasted long enough to let us know whether or not it is producing the developments that would ensure a durable recovery."

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Conditions in the steel industry continue to improve slowly, the comparative sharp rise of recent weeks having been checked, the magazine Steel said today. The slowdown is considered by the magazine a corrective measure.

Many observers are setting Labor day as the starting point of the substantial improvement looked for recently. Production of 1939 model automobiles seems likely to require large tonnages next month.

THEATER

Drama and Romance.

When an unmarried matinee idol suddenly takes a lovely young girl under his wing, provides her with everything and is on the closest terms with her, it looks like food for scandal, and that's what develops in "Letter of Introduction," current at the Madison. The gossip ruins a career and almost breaks up a romance before the truth is discovered. Adolphe Menjou is the matinee idol and Andrea Leeds the girl. George Murphy, who was seen here a few days ago as the romantic lead with Shirley Temple in "Little Miss Broadway," is the girl's fiance. Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy romance with Eve Arden, and Rita Johnson and Ann Sheridan contribute pulchritude. Miss Leeds re-establishes her right to be classed among the better emotional actresses of the screen in this picture.

Texas History.

Randolph Scott is a gallant figure in fringed buckskins in "The Texans," which is being shown at the Ohio, and Joan Bennett never gets a hair of her Fifth avenue coiffure out of place while playing the fiery Southern belle who attempts a one-woman rebellion against the autocratic rule of the North after the Civil war. The story deals with the woes of the people of Texas who, prostrate from the body blows of the war, were subjected to even greater miseries after the war from the Northern carpetbaggers. The romance between Scott and Miss Benett is highlighted by the historical action which forms the background.

Meet Gracie Fields.

Twentieth Century-Fox was so intent on making a picture starring Gracie Fields, the brightest star of the London stage, that the company took its entire working crew for the picture to England where Miss Fields could work between stage engagements. "We're Going to Be Rich," coming to the Majestic, is the result. Brian Donlevy and Victor McLaglen were taken over to play opposite the English star. A locale seldom seen in American pictures is used in it—Australia. The dance halls and the gold rush of Australia will remind Americans of the early days of the west in this country. The second feature is a South Sea island story filmed at Zamboanga, which is the name of the picture.

"Over the Wall."

Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison, New York, has probably done more to bring the problems of penology to the American foreground than any other one individual. He has written several books and is the author of a number of motion picture scenarios. Among the latter is "Over the Wall," on the Ritz bill, which like his others, is a prison story with a romantic theme. Dick Foran is the prize fighter who finds himself behind prison bars, resentful and unruly at the injustice of his fate. John Litel as the prison chaplain and June Travis as his sweetheart round out the major roles. Irene Dunne and Doug Fairbanks, jr., in "The Joy of Living," is the other feature.

What About Girl's Petting?

Love Making May Have Two Aspects

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

This is another in the series of articles on petting being presented on The News-Journal Woman's Page by the famous authority on problems of love and marriage. Beatrice Fairfax. In these articles Miss Fairfax tells the whys and wherefores of modern youth's "psychological revolution" in regard to petting, and discusses the fundamental dangers of petting along with the attitudes of both the old and young.

All said and done, there is petting and petting. Sometimes it is the furtive, shame-faced, thrill-seeking type that carries a sense of guilt; sometimes it is a satisfying fulfillment of life at its best.

The difficulty, if you're young, ignorant and emotional, is that you're apt to get real and spurious petting mixed. You mistake tawdry, thrill-chasing for the caress that is almost a spiritual experience.

It's pretty hard for parents, especially if they're "old school" and grew up without an inkling of the existing present-day latitude between the sexes, to understand that scolding or punishing is not a solution of the problem. It only alienates a girl when she stands in greatest need of a friend.

Neither are they helping their girls by shutting them up as if they were harem inmates. They can, however, help immensely by knowing their daughter's friends, making them welcome and tactfully weeding out undesirables.

This will give a girl at least some opportunity to become acquainted with boys, and keep her from imagining the first callow youth she sees on the street corner is a Prince Charming.

Dr. Paul Popence, Director of Family Relations, Los Angeles Institute, often quoted in this column, says, "You can't solve the problem of your own daughter; it's her problem, not yours. You might be able to force your views on her but at the risk of leaving her less able to make wise choices for herself in the future."

There is, however, no side-stepping the fact that young people should be made to understand the consequences which result from their actions—or, or often, consequences which have nothing to do with decisions but result from drifting and lack of restraint.

If parents feel themselves unequal to giving their children instructions in health and sex hygiene, they should see to it that such courses are given by a responsible person, who has the general welfare of adolescents at heart. Not every layman — nor every doctor for that matter—is competent to give such instruction. Courses on sex hygiene should be taught by a trained adviser of the highest type, one to whom adolescents can turn, knowing that their confidences will be scrupulously respected.

Dr. Goodwin Watson, of Columbia university, has suggested a series of questions that parents should get girls to answer for themselves. One of them is extremely apropos: "Does petting mean the same to both of you, or is one callously exploiting the other to get a feeling of power or a cheap thrill?"

One should judge the situation differently, according to which of these two possibilities is realized.

This most difficult of problems with which parents are confronted is not new. Before the days of the automobile and the cheap roadside tavern, "bundling" brought gray hairs to parental heads even before this country was an independent nation.

Reverting to Dr. Popence: "This perennial problem cannot be solved by laying down rules and regulations. If "being solved" means finding some way in which results will be 100 per cent satisfactory, it will never be solved at all."

The best that parents can do is to make friends with their children, establish confidence, have the home more than a telephone number, know your boys' and girls' friends—and hope for the best.

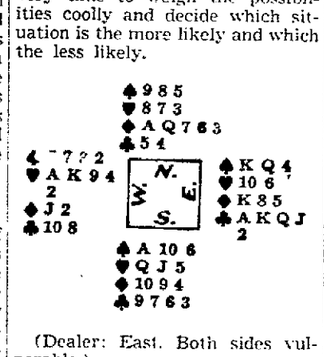
WALK TO THE EXITS

THEATER OWNERS tell us that in case of fire we should walk, not run, to the exits. So it is also in bridge. If a defender does something different from what we expect, flying into a panic and acting hastily will not help. Then is the very time to weigh the possibilities coolly and decide which situation is the more likely and which the less likely.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

On this deal East opened the bidding with 1-Club, South passed, West responded with 1-Heart, North passed, East called 2-No Trumps and West 3-No Trumps.

South selected the diamond 10 his original lead. When the J was played from dummy, North made the killing play of the Q and East, placing the A with North, decided to duck the first round.

With no entry to cash his diamonds, when set up, and hoping South held the diamond 9, North returned the diamond 6. This fooled East, who decided he might have been wrong about the location of the A. He now hastily figured South's lead was probably from the A, 10 and a very small card, so played the 8. South won with the 9 and returned, so that his side captured five diamond tricks and the spade A, setting East one more trick than necessary.

What is the most important factor in correct defense on this deal at 6-No Trumps?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON
Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Here the men are now, Katie," I said superfluously as the voices of Dicky and Harry Underwood come to us from outside the door.

"Yah, I hear dem," Katie returned in matter-of-fact fashion, but there was tense emotion in the swift glances Lillian and I exchanged.

They were alive—and safe—for there was nothing strained in the tones we had overheard. The matter of whether the man they had been chasing had escaped them or had been captured was dwarfed by the other precious assurance.

But when they came in, I knew with my first look at them that their mission had been unsuccessful. With no reason for preserving poker faces, for Katie knew as well as we did that the man they had been chasing had escaped them, they did not try to conceal their feelings, and dejection was written in every line of their faces and figures.

He Got Away.

"He got clean away," Dicky said, not waiting for us to put a query.

"Yes, he sure showed us a clean pair of heels," Mr. Underwood said, and while I knew the danger of the man's going unscathed into the surrounding darkness, nothing mattered just now save their safe return to us.

"We've having Jim rig up the searchlight equipment," Dicky said. I nodded with relief, for I knew that with that illumination —designed by my father for possible emergencies like the present one—not even a mouse could cross the lighted circle thrown around the house, without being seen by the watching guards concealed in the darkness outside the circle. It was a device which could be snapped on and off from points inside the house, or from a switch outside, thus making it possible for either those coming into the house or going out from it to have momentary darkness — and shelter — while they hurriedly crossed the magic circle.

Inform Guests.

"Better, tell your royal guests," he went on, "else they may be puzzled and upset by the glaring light."

"I'll tell Katherine," I said, "and she'll see that they are not alarmed. How soon can you two eat? Supper is almost ready."

"Harry will be with you as soon as he washes up," Dicky rejoined, "and he's the only one of us two that matters. I had a very good dinner, as you know, at the usual time. Not that I can't down a little more of Katie's delicious fodder" —he grinned at Katie's pleased face—"but don't wait for me. I have some telephoning to do, and I wish you'd come with me, Madge. You saw that chap. I didn't, and I need you."

"Go ahead," Lillian said promptly. "Katie and I will carry on here, and Katherine will tell me what she wants for the tray."

Must Take Queen Up.

"Before anything else," I said hurriedly, "You men must carry Queen Olga upstairs. Katherine wants to get her into bed as soon as possible, and won't let her try to walk."

"I should hope not," Dicky commented, "but—can't she wait, this telephoning—"

"Must be done at once," Harry Underwood added authoritatively. "Get along with you! The queen hasn't any bones broken, has she?" he queried.

"No," I answered laconically.

"Then lead me to her," he said, flexing his arms with a comical gesture which set Katie to giggling again. "If I can't carry one poor, emaciated woman upstairs without help, even if the dignity of royalty does hang heavily upon her, I'll get me an admisison to the Old Folks' home within the week."

Dicky In Hurry.

"Okay, big boy," his wife told him. "Come along with me, and I'll break the good news to Katherine."

"Hurry, Madge!" Dicky admonished from the door, and I obeyed him, only waiting to tell Katie to serve supper to those downstairs as soon as it was ready. But Dicky was impatient of even that slight delay, and, with his hand beneath my elbow, rushed me up the stairs and down the corridor to my own room.

"Get the keys to Dad's suite, if you please," he said. "But hurry."

I dashed into my room, snatched the keys from their hiding place, and was out again with a minimum of delay. Dicky fairly snatched them from my hand and raced down the corridor to my father's door. And then from every window there blazed the glare of the searchlights which had been turned upon the house, and from the nursery came a piercing cry.

SOUFFLE EN SURPRISE
Serve with Fried Chicken.

12 marshmallows
Flour
4 teaspoons cold water
2 egg yolks
Bread crumbs
Fat for deep fat frying

Roll marshmallows in flour. Combine cold water with egg yolks and beat well. Dip marshmallows into egg mixture and then roll in bread crumbs. Heat fat to 385 degrees F. and deep fat fry marshmallows, one at a time. Do this very quickly and remove marshmallow from fat as soon as it is golden brown. Place on paper towel to drain. Serve hot.

SAUTED APPLE RINGS
Serve with Roast Pork or Crisp Bacon.

2 apples
8 whole marshmallows
Fat for sauteing

Core apples, remove the skin if desired, and slice thickly. Saute (or fry in a small amount of butter or other shortening) until delicately browned. Remove from the skillet, top each apple ring with a whole marshmallow, and brown quickly beneath broiler or in hot oven.

Jellied Loaf, Hawaiian Omelet Good

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

CRUMBLED CRACKERS make just about the best "stretchers" and "extenders" we know. Crumbled crackers soaked in hot milk take the place of white sauce in making croquets, patties and souffles. Crumbled crackers combined with three-quarters pound of chopped beef make marvelous fresh beef chops—enough for six. Crumbled crackers with canned tomatoes make delicate and delicious timbales. Or, with a one-quarter pound of cheese and two eggs, crumbled crackers produce a glorious cheese fondue.

Jellied Meat Loaf.

This jellied meat loaf is one of the nicest way to stretch leftover meats, since three-quarters cup cooked, chopped meat will yield six portions. Ingredients include tablespoon gelatine, one-half cup cold water, one cup stock (well seasoned), tablespoon minced onion, 10 flake crackers (crumbled fine), teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two teaspoons lemon juice and three-quarters cup chopped, cooked meat (veal, lamb, ham, beef or chicken). Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes. Add stock and onion, bring to boiling point and pour over soaked gelatine. Stir in crumbled crackers. Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Cool and add meat. Turn into mold and chill. Cut in slices for serving. Garnish chicken loaf with chilled peas in lettuce cups; veal loaf with potato salad in lettuce cups; lamb loaf with mint jelly on tiny crackers; ham loaf with potato chips and mustard pickle; beef loaf with pimento strips and sliced dill pickle.

Baked cheese fondue is a splendid lunch or supper dish. It needs one cup scalded milk, 22 saltina biscuits, one-quarter pound cheese (flaked), tablespoon butter, one-half teaspoon salt, two egg yolks (beaten) and two egg whites. Pour scalded milk over crumbled crackers, flaked cheese, butter and salt. Stir this mixture into beaten egg yolks and fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake in 375 F. over 20 to 25 minutes. This recipe yields six portions.

Hawaiian Omelet.

Hawaiian omelet is a different dish, a good choice when the family complains that it never gets tasty foods. Ingredients include four egg yolks, one-half cup milk, 12 flake crackers, four egg whites, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half cup canned pineapple and three tablespoons grated cheese. Beat egg yolks about a minute, add milk and crumbled crackers. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Melt butter in frying pan and pour in mixture. Cover and cook over low heat until lightly browned, then in 350 F. oven about three minutes. Cook pineapple until juice thickens, about 10 minutes. Pour cooked pineapple on half the omelet, fold and slide onto a platter. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Serve at once. This recipe makes six portions.

Kinsey Players Finish Six-Week Stay on Sunday

The Madge Kinsey Players will continue here this week and through next Sunday, finishing a six-weeks outdoor engagement in Mansfield. They will go to Greenville, O., to play during county fair week, an engagement which Madge Kinsey has played annually for more than 35 years.

For their last week here the Players are presenting three bills, today and tomorrow, "Dizzy Dames," a comedy; Wednesday and Thursday, "For Cryin' Out Loud," a romantic comedy with a theme similar to "Abie's Irish Rose"; on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, "Mama's Baby Boy," a farce comedy.

The company is appearing in its tent theater on West Second street and has played to consistently good crowds. This is the second summer the company has played in Mansfield.

Remember that children require a quart of milk daily and adults should have a pint. The milk can be served alone or used in combination with other foods in soups, stews, hot chocolate or desserts.

Preserving Time Brings Recipes

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
Home Service Department Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

This is the season when good cooks swap recipes for jams, jellies and preserves. Kitchens are fragrant with the appetizing odor of cooking fruit. Cupboard shelves show shining rows of well-filled jars. May we suggest these recipes to add to your favorite ones.

Baked Orange and Peach Jam.
2 medium oranges
1 lemon
1 dozen fresh peaches
Sugar

Cut unpeeled lemon and oranges in pieces and put through food grinder. Peel and slice peaches. Combine fruit. Measure and add an equal amount of sugar. Place in a shallow pan and bake 2 hours in a slow oven (300° F.) Stir occasionally.

Mint Jelly.
1 cup mint leaves (packed tightly)
1 cup apple juice
¾ cup sugar
1 cup boiling water

Pour boiling water over mint leaves and allow to steep one hour. Press the juice from the leaves and add 2 tablespoons of this extract to apple juice and sugar. Boil rapidly to jelly stage. Tint with green vegetable coloring. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses.

Raspberry-Strawberry-Cherry Preserves.
2 pints raspberries
2 pints strawberries
1 or 1½ pounds cherries
Equal amount of sugar by weight, of all fruits

Combine all ingredients and boil 25 minutes.

Add ½ cup lemon juice and boil 2 minutes more. Remove from fire and allow to cool. When cold pack into sterilized jars and seal. When these preserves are finished, they may look as if they are too thin, but consistency thickens upon standing and after being packed into jars.

Cranberry Jam, Spiced.
8 cups cranberries
1 cup each water and vinegar
6 cups sugar
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
½ tablespoon ground cloves
½ tablespoon ground allspice.

Mash cranberries lightly; add vinegar and water and cook until soft. Put through coarse strainer; add sugar and spices, cook 8 minutes, stirring often. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Apple Butter (Spiced)
4 gallons prepared apples
1 gallon sweet cider
4 pints of sugar
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Pare core and slice apples. Boil sweet cider until it is reduced one-half. Add apples to cider while boiling. Cook slowly, stirring frequently so as to prevent burning. When it begins to thicken add the sugar and spices. Cook until it remains in a smooth mass when a little is cooled. Pack into sterilized jars and seal.

Rhubard Conserve.
3 lbs. rhubard
8 cups sugar
3 cups weak vinegar
2 oranges.
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups seedless raisins
2 cups walnut meats

Wash rhubarb, cut in pieces and pour boiling water over it. Allow to stand 3 minutes and drain. Add sugar, vinegar, spices, grated rind and juice of oranges, and raisins cut in pieces. Cook slowly until thick, add chopped nut meats and pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Harlequin Marmalade.
1 medium sized pineapple, or
1 can pineapple
3 oranges
1½ pints water
4 cups sugar
3 tablespoons chopped blanched almonds

Wash oranges, cut in small pieces, removing seeds. Pour water over the oranges and let stand over night; in morning cook in same water; when tender add pineapple, cut in small pieces; simmer 20 minutes, then add sugar and cook for 30 minutes; just before removing from fire add nut meats. This is a very delicate sweet to eat with ice cream. For special occasions, add a few chopped maraschino cherries just before removing from fire. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Pensacola Punch Refreshes; Easy to Make

PENSACOLA PUNCH

1½ cups granulated sugar, 6 cups water, 2 cans grapejuice, ½ cup lemon juice, 3 cups lime juice.

Boil sugar and water together for five minutes (to make a simple syrup for sweetening). Add fruit juices and chill thoroughly. Pour over cracked ice in a punch bowl and serve in punch cups. Garnish with canned grapefruit segments, green cherries and fresh mint sprigs.

Peach Cake Pie.
Temperature: 400° F.
Time: 35 minutes.
Pastry for one pie shell.
1 large can sliced peaches
4 tablespoons butter
1 egg
1 cup flour
½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
1¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon lemon extract
Dash salt

Line a pie plate with pastry and place over this a light-weight tin pie plate the same size as the lower plate. Bake the pastry between the two plates for ten minutes. This method holds the crust in perfect shape. While pastry is baking drain carefully, or slice, the peaches. Mix the eight ingredients to make a simple cake batter. Remove the pie shell from the oven, take off the upper plate and flour the crust to prevent fruit moisture from making a soft result. Spread on the fruit and over this the cake batter. Return quickly to the oven for twenty or twenty-five minutes more . . . to finish cooking the lower crust and the cake top. When cold and ready to serve, garnish with a piping of cream cheese if desired.

Sink Hints Will Save Housewife

Water, hot and cold, is essential in the cleaning and preparation of vegetables and fruits. Therefore, to save steps, place your kitchen sink near the food-preparation center. In the small kitchen this is a simple matter. In the large kitchen it may merely mean moving the work table, storage cabinets, and refrigerator nearer the sink, which is the most difficult thing to move. In other words, you are really arranging a smaller kitchen at one end of your large one.

And while we are discussing the sink, let us remind you of the great convenience of a double-drainboard sink, or one with two compartments and a table or counter space on either side. This makes for system in dishwashing, as the dishes may be piled ready to wash on the table or counter at one side; and after being washed they may be rinsed and drained at the other side.

If you have a one-drainboard sink that you are not ready to replace, why not put a shelf on the other side, or use a portable table? Avoid a low sink, and you'll avoid a crick in the back. As long as your sink is too low your kitchen is a poor one. The sink should be 36 inches high, unless you are unusually short. — Good Housekeeping.

"Snowballs" make a refreshing summer dessert. Roll two-inch balls of ice cream in cocoanut. Work quickly and serve the balls in "boxes" of angel food or sponge cake.

Melons should be served ice cold. Do not try to chill them by filling them with choped ice. Chill the melon thoroughly in the refrigerator and serve it as quickly as possible after it is cold. You may put a little ice around the outside, if you like, to help keep it chilly.

Roosevelt to Call For Broader U. S. Social Reforms

TALK TONIGHT OVER RADIO TO REVEAL VIEWS

President to Give Address on Third Anniversary of Social Security Act.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The New Deal celebrated the third anniversary of the social security act today by promising to improve and extend its provisions.

In observance of the birthday of his pet social legislation, President Roosevelt will address the nation tonight over a nation-wide radio network. He will speak for 15 minutes, beginning at 9:30 p. m. EST. Although the White House guarded the subject of his address it was considered likely that he would elaborate his views on social reform.

Speaking from the White House, the address will climax the social security board's third anniversary dinner. The president will be introduced by Sen. Robert F. Wagner, D., N. Y., co-author, and Rep. David J. Lewis, D., Md., of the act. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins also will address the celebrants.

Labor Factions Agree.

The anniversary found both major labor factions—the A. F. of L. and the CIO—united in one common cause. CIO chairman John L. Lewis and federation president William Green, both said that they would seek further advances in the field of social security.

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the social security board, in an eulogy of past attainments of the program, indicated that the law's provisions would be broadened, perhaps at the next session of congress. He said that extension of the act to agricultural labor, domestics and other presently exempt classes was being considered.

The social security board now is engaged in preparing proposed legislation to provide for changes suggested last April by Mr. Roosevelt, who is particularly anxious that the board develop a plan for liberalizing the old-age insurance system. He has expressed a desire to extend the insurance coverage to exempted persons, to commence payment of old-age insurance annuities earlier than Jan. 1, 1942, to pay larger benefits for those retiring during the earlier years of the system, to provide benefits for aged wives and widows, and to provide benefits for young children of insured persons dying before retirement age.

Kidnapers Facing Death In Society Girl's Abduction

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(INS)—The death penalty under the Lindbergh law today hung over the heads of two kidnapers of a socially prominent St. Louis girl and her escort.

The victims, Miss Peggy Gross, 23, and Daniel Cox Fahey, jr., 31, an architect, both bore the marks of rough handling by their abductors on a wild 36-hour ride from St. Louis, as state and local police mobilized with federal agents in a concerted hunt for the pair.

Miss Gross was near exhaustion from lack of food and sleep and nervous tension. She was bruised and her arms and face swollen from mosquito bites. Fahey's head was cut and bruised where one of the gunmen slugged him with a pistol butt at the time of the holdup late Friday.

By taking Miss Gross and Fahey across state lines the kidnapers violated the federal Lindbergh law that carries the death penalty as maximum punishment if the victims are harmed.

The search for the pair was spread into the Dakotas and Wisconsin today. Radio alarms were frequently broadcast giving descriptions of the men and Fahey's car, a brown sedan with red wire wheels.

SECURITY OFFICE HAS 'BIRTHDAY'

Holds Open House Tonight On Third Anniversary Of Act.

In observance of the third anniversary of the passage of the Social Security act, the Mansfield district field office of the board will hold "open house" tonight at its offices in the Richland Trust building.

R. G. Mish, local manager today extended an invitation to the public to visit the office and listen to President Franklin D. Roosevelt who will speak on the progress of social security from 9:30 p. m. to 9:45 p. m., over a nation-wide radio hook-up directly from the White House. The office will be open from 7:30.

DON'T EAT CREAM PIES

COLUMBUS—(INS)—With four children poisoned in the last few days in that manner, Health Commissioner N. C. Dysart today warned against eating cream pies during the hot weather.

Mansfield was well represented yesterday at the All-American Soap Box derby finals in Akron—not only was Loren Wiley piloting his trim little mount in the race but Jacob Weigel, Mansfield boy employed by the National Broadcasting company, handled the narration on the colorful pageant and told the world about the "greatest amateur event in the world." Weigel, who is associated with Station WGN, Chicago, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weigel, 27 Baldwin avenue.

What was probably the largest crowd ever to congregate outside a Mansfield theater waited for more than an hour Saturday night in the vicinity of the Madison theater, hoping to see and hear the nation-wide contest of the Renfro Valley Barn Dance. While the theater, aisles and back stage, were crowded, an estimated 3,000 persons waited outside, filling the sidewalks from the theater half a block west and north. Many left after a long wait, but about 1,800 filled the theater again after it hand been emptied and another show was given for them. Two families from Claysburgh, Pa., 275 miles from here, made the 550-mile trip Saturday to see their favorite radio program "in person."

Howard Kochenderfer of near Adario has a rival in Charles Wyandt, New Haven township trustee, as the champion oats grower of Richland county. The former's 21-acre yield averaged 75 bushels to the acre. But Wyandt claims an average from a field of slightly more than two acres that is a wee bit higher. His crop, he says, yielded 175 bushels from only six and a half bushels of seed of a Swedish variety.

Now Tony Schadek, Mansfield diving champion, knows how Corrigan felt when he got back to New York. After winning his second consecutive North Central Ohio high-board championship at Liberty park yesterday afternoon, Schadek was swarmed under by friends who wanted to congratulate him and get a snapshot. Schadek competed in a field of seven to win the trophy and retain the title he won last year.

Donald D. Cram, Y. M. C. A. physical director, today was seeking the aid of residents on the Sturges avenue hill, scene of The News-Journal Soap Box derby two weeks ago, in finding the tool kit of his automobile which he lost on derby day. The kit was placed on the front porch of one of the houses on the hill. Cram did not miss the kit until he got ready to go to Akron yesterday for the All-American derby finals.

JOHN A. WIERMAN DIES AT AGE 80

Father of Highway Engineer Was Reformatory Band Leader, Postmaster.

John Albert Wierman, 80, former reformatory band leader and father of Boyd Wierman, resident state highway engineer, died at his home, 262 West Fourth street, Sunday after a lingering illness.

Mr. Wierman was appointed band leader at the reformatory 31 years ago, and later served as a teacher and auditor. He was the institution's postmaster at the time of his retirement Jan. 1, this year.

Upon his retirement, Mr. Wierman was presented with a gold medal by fellow employes for his 31 years of service.

He was born in Cumberland county, March 30, 1858, and came to this county at the age of 17. Prior to coming to Mansfield he resided in Ganges where he was a carpenter, school teacher and musician. He organized the Ganges band which he served as director for 27 years.

His fraternal affiliations included the Venus lodge, 152, R. & A. M., Mansfield chapter, 28, R. A. M., Mansfild council, 94 R. & S. M., and Mansfield Commandery, 21, Knights Templar.

Surviving are four sons, Boyd and Wilbur of Mansfield, Clyde of Columbus, and Kester of Toledo; a daughter, Pearl of Mansfield; a brother, Charles, of Long Beach, Calif.; a sister, Rose, also of Long Beach, and six grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. E. G. Corwin of the First Methodist church officiating, assisted by the Knights Templar. Burial will be in the Ganges cemetery.

BRICKER, TAFT FIRE OPENING GUNS IN FALL CAMPAIGN TODAY

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Led by their two ranking candidates, Ohio Republicans swung into their general election campaign today, less than a week after the primary.

Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, who is opposing the re-election bid of Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland to the U. S. senate, was scheduled to speak over a state-wide radio hookup at 12:45 p. m., while at 6:30 p. m. John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor against Charles Sawyer, was expected to define in a broadcast the principles of his campaign.

Bricker said in a public statement last week that Sawyer "can not get Ohio out of its present mess because his candidacy is dependent upon those who are known as defilers of the good name of the state of Ohio."

The Republican candidate was unopposed in the primary, while Sawyer defeated Gov. Martin L. Davey's bid for a third term. Sawyer now is vacationing in the East.

The Republican campaign probably will be outlined fully when the newly elected state central holds its organization meeting here Wednesday. State Chairman Ed D. Schorr was expected to retain his present dual capacity as chairman of the state central and state executive committees.

All Democratic candidates who pulled through the primary were invited to meet with Sawyer here on Aug. 23, one day before the newly elected members of the Democratic state central committee convenes. Arthur Limback of New Philadelphia, who aided the Sawyer primary campaign, said the meeting would be devoted to plans and policies for the fall election.

While it appeared the Bricker-Sawyer battle would revolve chiefly around state issues, the New Deal loomed as a paramount factor in the Taft-Bulkley contest. Taft has expressed opposition to some New Deal policies. Bulkley, endorsed openly by President Roosevelt, said he favored continuation of the administration's program.

TAKES POISON

Mansfielder, 22, Ends His Own Life in Home.

John Moritz, 22, died almost instantly at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. Anton Moritz, 338 First avenue, early today after drinking a small bottle of powerful poison.

Acting Coroner D. C. Lavender could not be reached today for an official verdict. Moritz was believed to have been despondent.

An employe of the Ohio Brass company, he was born in Mansfield, Jan. 26, 1916.

Surviving besides his parents are his wife, Helen; a son, John A.; a brother, Stephen, and five sisters, Mrs. Fred Miller, Mrs. Thomas Bader, Mrs. John Kmetz, Mrs. Joe Sheets, and Elaine, all of Mansfield.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home. Arrangements are incomplete.

CLAIM NIPPON TROOPS IGNORED PACT FOR PEACE

Demands for Withdrawal From Border Complied With and Clash Threat Fades.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Soviet government indicated today the carrying out of the Changkufeng armistice agreement had been delayed by new border difficulties which almost resulted in an armed clash shortly after the truce went into effect August 11.

The difficulties first were disclosed in a Soviet comminque last night stating that a new outbreak of fighting on the disputed Siberian-Korean frontier had been narrowly averted when Japanese troops moved into advanced positions after the truce.

The troops were withdrawn, the announcement said, after foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff warned Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu that "the U. S. S. R. will consider the armistice violated" if they were permitted to hold their new positions.

Still Dissatisfied.

While Japanese compliance with Litvinoff's demand removed dangers of an immediate clash, the Soviet government was said still to be dissatisfied with the attitude of Japanese military representatives at Changkufeng.

The latter, according to the communique, refused to sign the armistice agreement and a map indicating the respective positions of troops, explaining that they "awaited instructions from the higher command."

Skepticism as to Japanese intentions was expressed by the Soviet navy newspaper "Red Navy," which asserted Japan had been preparing an attack on the Soviet union for seven years.

The newspaper said financial difficulties at home, poor crops in Manohoukuo and other difficulties had prevented "completion" of the war preparations, but that the Japanese had nearly 400,000 men, 1,200 pieces of artilery, 650 tanks and 550 warplanes "ready for a war against the U. S. S. R."

JAPS ANGER BRITISH

SHANGHAI—(UP)—Tension between the Japanese military command and foreign authorities increased today and some quarters expressed fears that the Japanese might attempt to occupy the international settlement.

The anger of British authorities was aroused when Japanese soldiers lowered the British flag and hoisted the Japanese on the British tug, Victoria, aground in the Yangtse river off Kiangyin.

NEW BUSINESS

Treatine Products, Inc., Comes to Mansfield.

Mansfield today had acquired a new business which will distribute a proprietary medicine, nationally advertised, and employ a dozen salesmen.

Treatine Products, Inc., formerly located in Columbus, has moved its laboratories and entire staff to Mansfield, locating in a new building at 284 Lexington avenue.

The company manufactures Treatine, a throat remedy, and a number of other medical products. President and general manager of the company is C. Lewis Wilson, Columbus, who will move to Mansfield.

E. M. Olin, identified with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company here for more than 30 years, and who retired July 1, is secretary-treasurer of the company. Olin was for a number of years works manager in charge of the Mansfield Westinghouse plant.

The company plans an extensive advertising campaign.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Radicals Attack System They Favor In Scoring Group Medicine Doctors

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The case is incomplete, but the evidence to date indicates that radical opinion has fanged itself again in the case of the American Medical association.

This organization, which has some of the qualities of a labor union, is condemned for employing the same methods that are indorsed for use by unions of the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. It concerns itself with ethics and practices and has managed to build up a rather substantial public belief that doctors who do not belong to the association or one or more of its graduated subsidiaries are declasse.

Its members may refuse to consult or otherwise co-operate with doctors who do not belong to the association or any of its subsidiaries, but they are not required to refuse. They may break through the barrier if, in their individual judgment, the non-union doctor is a qualified man.

* * *

For practical purposes, however, it may be said that the union is in favor of the closed shop and that the members boycott those who do not belong. The avowed intention is to enforce standards of education, conduct and skill for the protection of the people, but the department of justice charges that in Washington the union doctors have threatened to expel and thus declass qualified men for reasons which have no bearing on their professional ability or methods.

The department claims that doctors serving a group health association composed of government employes have been threatened with expulsion and that the same threat has been issued against members who even consult with the group doctors. Inasmuch as membership in the association or the least of its subsidiaries has come to be regarded as a certificate of professional fitness, this action would damage the reputations of the expelled men.

* * *

Its extension would stop the development of such mass buying of medical service, an experiment in the large effort to provide adequate medical care for the poor. But it would also prevent the rich or well-to-do patient from buying first-class service for the same amount that he spends for cigarets by joining a health group on a common footing with the poor.

The plan obviously has points which the doctors may view with honest alarm, and those who practice in Washington have particular reason to do so. The Naval hospital in Washington, by distortion of an act of congress, intended only to provide emergency hangover service for members of the two houses, is now deemed to be open to all members of congress and all members of the cabinet, all of whom should be able to pay first-class civilian rates for their rooms and medical and surgical care in non-service hospitals. The act merely said that there would be a naval doctor in attendance on the congress.

* * *

Radical opinion instinctively but rather thoughtlessly leaped to the attack on the Medical association and has thereby indorsed in principle the very arguments that are used against certain practices of labor unions

Labor unions use the same coercive process as the doctors in enforcing unity among their members. They condemn men to unemployment, even on some government projects, who for any reason, including personal persecution, do not have union cards. Like the doctors, they resist efforts to reduce their pay per unit in favor of a steady annual income

They reserve the right to expel men from union membership on grounds which have nothing to do with their ability as workmen, and they habitually operate in restraint of trade by declaring boycotts against plants and even whole industries and geographical areas.

* * *

The doctors, to be strictly fair to them, are less exacting in such matters than the unions. They may, and some will, co-operate with non-union colleagues who can prove their qualifications but who have reasons of principles for refusing to join the union. The labor union, however, grants no such discretion to its members in jobs where the ideal union condition—the closed shop—has been imposed.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Bette Davis has found a Cause.

She shouldn't have (Bette says so herself) because when she gets into a thing she gets all excited and won't let go until it's done.

This, as you can see, is a sorry state of affairs for a busy movie actress. And Bette is busy. Trussed up in corset and stays of the Gibson-girl era, she's emoting under physical difficulties through the dramatic morasses of "The Sisters." Her waist is but little larger than a quart milk bottle, and she can't breathe much but she has to emote just the same. It's tough.

But what matter hardships when Bette has a Cause?

She is president of the Tailwagger Foundation of American. This, to put it roughly, is a society dedicated to the more abundant life for dogs.

* * *

But let Bette tell about it. Today she's knitting in her dressing room on the set, temporarily out of her strait-jacket and comfortable in sweater and shorts. I storm in. Well, I mean I go in, full of righteous indignation. I am meaning to hurl phrases: "...children of the slums...one-third of a nation . . . starving Armenians. . . ."

But I don't get to the first reel. Miss D. always has that soothing effect on me. Or maybe I'm just ineffectual and never will win friends and influence people.

In the first place, Bette explains that life membership in Tailwaggers cost but $2 per dog member, nothing more asked. And I can see that a movie star can spend two bucks of her so-hard-earned cash on dogdom if she feels like it without being considered thoughtless of the famous "one-third."

"I was just a dog-lover—I have two—and I took good care of mine and knew they were happy and I didn't give a thought to other dogs," Bette explains earnestly. "But then I learned about POUNDS! They're awful!"

Tailwaggers, it seems, saves dogs from pounds. If your dog is lost they find it.

And then the society fights legislation it considers unfair to dog-owners. Bette warms up on this point:

"It downed that state bill making rabies inoculation compulsory, charging dog-owners for the shots. You know how that would have worked out—how would anyone know what was really in the shots? Probably water!"

So I ask her about that proposed city ordinance during the local rabies scare—the one to confine dogs to their own backyards.

"Tailwaggers stopped that, too. Why, the ordinance would have made it illegal to take a dog out even on a leash! Oh, yes—I agree dogs should stay in their own yards, but what if they jump the fence? And those silly laws to require owners to make their dogs stop barking between 10 p. m. and 6 a m.! Why, barking's part of a dog's work. What good's a dog that won't bark!"

Tailwaggers does all sorts of things besides. One, really laudable, is to provide scholarships for training Seeing Eye dogs.

And it wants to build a shelter here for strays, a sort of clearing-house for mislaid pups. That's why Bette is sponsoring a benefit ball in August. All the town's dog-o-maniacs will be there.

Ex-Big Leaguers Win for Mud Hens

TOLEDO — (AP) — Cletus "Boots" Poffenberger of Toledo, not so long ago a Detroit Tiger hurler, continues to mow them down in the American association. And Poffenberger's teammate, Jim Walkup, also a former American leaguer, has joined Boots in disturbing the peace of the titleminded association leaders.

The two got together against St. Paul's league leaders yesterday and the result was a double win for Toledo, 8 to 5 and 7 to 4. Poffenberger's victory was the more impressive since he won out against Vic Frasier who had begun the game boasting of 11 straight victories.

Tony Schadek Wins District Diving Crown

Edges Smith for First Honors at Liberty Park.

The North Central Ohio district high board diving crown today rested firmly on the brow of Tony Schadek, 1937 low board champion of this district.

Schadek won the first of two district diving titles he seeks this summer Sunday when he bested a capable field of mermen in the first annual competition on the three-meter board at Liberty park before a crowd estimated at 800.

The judges, C. R. Walters of Fremont and Hubert Brennen and Farnum Coffin of Mansfield, credited Schadek with 96.34 points, with second honors going to Bradford Smith, also of Mansfield, who is a junior at Ohio State university.

Smith scored 94.26 points to 90.61 for Richard Shaw of Mansfield high school, who finished third in the competition supervised by Russell von Wieder, manager of the park pool.

Schadek's margin of victory was obtained on the perfectness of his execution of the one-and-one-half somersault, full Gainer and one-and-one half cutaway somersault. Each contestant made 10 dives, five required and five optional.

Smith's execution of the half Gainer, half twist and full Gainer were the highlights of his dives. Shaw showed up best in the full Gainer cut and front one and one-half somersault with a full twist.

Schadek, who received the Yuncker trophy for his victory, and the majority of the other contestants are expected to compete in the low board championships to be held at the pool, Sunday, Aug. 28.

In addition to the Yuncker Bros. store, the donors of prizes included the Davis Home Furnishing company and von Wieder.

Colored Elks Win Decision

Bus Hawkins' Mansfield colored Elks yesterday accomplished what few other teams have this season when they defeated the Hayesville Giants, 12 to 2, at Tillman's park.

The Elks knocked the heralded McKinley out of the box in the first inning with a 5-run uprising, and Anderson, who succeeded him, fared little better. The Elks obtained 17 hits, with Truley leading the way with four. John Brown hit a home run, double and single.

Walker gave the visitors only seven hits, struck out six and did not permit a score until the last inning.

The First Lutheran softball team, champion of the Church league, will meet the Shelby Penguins at Empire field at 5:45 p. m. today. The Shelby club has won 17 games out of 19 this year. The Penguins' victories include two over the Shelby Cycles, last year's Shelby champions.

MANSFIELD BOXERS WIN, LOSE, DRAW AT MARION

Beauford Glover, 134, knocked out Ray Howman of Ashland in the third round, Tom Clemens, 117, fought to a draw with Paul Mollenkopf of Bucyrus and Paul Carbetta, 115, weakened by a low blow in the second round, lost to Eddie LeRoy of Marion in the amateur boxing matches staged in Marion Friday night. The Mansfield boys represented the Friendly House.

Win Over Cab Team In Finals

Qualify for State Tourney to Be Held in Elyria Later This Month.

THIS district will be represented in the state softball tournament to be held in Elyria later this month by the Beeber-Ross Beers of Mansfield.

The Beermen won the championship of the district Sunday when they defeated the DeLuxe Cabs, also of Mansfield, 2 to 1, in the finals staged before a crowd of more than 1,000 spectators at League park.

Error Decides Game.

The championship contest was anybody's ball game, but the new champions reecived one good break, and they took advantage of it to sew up the victory.

In the sixth inning with the score tied 1-all, two down and Pitcher Freddy Carver on first by virtue of a single, Frank Balbaugh singled over second, and the hurler scored when Vogel overthrew third.

Until this happened to break the tie, it was difficult to tell how the game would result. Both of the Beers' runs were unearned.

Ben Fried of the Cabs and Carver of the Beers both pitched brilliantly, with the former, however, having a slight edge. Fried yielded only three hits and held the Beers hitless until the fifth when they scored their first run on Ed Henrich's double and an error, one of four committed by his teammates.

The Cabs found Carver for five blows, but they were unable to use them to advantage.

The DeLuxe team wasted all of its hits except the two they put together in the second to score its lone run. Nick Weber's single, an error and Judy's double gave the Cubs their only run.

They threatened seriously in the third, fourth and fifth frames, but were unable to supply the necessary hits after men reached first.

Although obtaining only one hit, the Beeber-Ross club won over the Marion Merchants, 1 to 0, in a semi-final game. The only hit allowed by Millisor was a single by Henrich, but it came with Aston and Harry Ross on the sacks via passes, and the former scored on the lone blow.

Jim Fullager gave up only three hits in this till. A feature of this game was the sensational catch of Tuttle's on Harry Ross' bid for a home run in the seventh. The Marion center fielder pulled the ball down with his back to the plate.

Dick Treisch hurled brilliantly as the DeLuxe team won over the Hartman Electrics of Mansfield, 2 to 0, in the other semi-final game. Treisch yielded two hits and was seldom in difficulty.

Steegman, the hurler who won two games in the opening round a week ago, also gave up only two safeties, which were put together in the sixth to permit the Cabs to tally their first run. A walk and an error gave the Mansfield team the other run in the seventh.

Today's Prospect Park Game May Decide Title

YOU can bet the way your conscience dictates, but don't be surprised if you're wrong.

That's the way the City Class A softball league game at Prospect park stacks up today.

It is a game involving the Prospectors and Johns park, and the fur fairly flies when these two rivals get together.

There is much at stake in their meeting today, and there will be no foolin' around when they cross bats in the next to the last game on this season's schedule.

The game will give one of the two teams undisputed possesison of first place. They are tied now.

And the game will just about decide the second half championship, too. With the second half title goes the qualification for a position in the titular play-off.

The Johns park entry won the first half toga. It doesn't have to win this half's honors to qualify for the play-off, but don't expect to see the Johnnies hand the game to the Prospectors.

Too much rivalry exists between the two clubs to expect anything like that, and, furthermore, if the Johnnies can add this half's title, too, they will eliminate the possibility of a defeat in the play-off.

It all points to a spectacular ball game at Prospect park, and there is every indication that a record crowd will be on hand to see Jim Fullager tossing 'em withinto the cellar.

Ontario Wins 11th Straight

Defeats Merchants, 8 to 4, at Liberty Park.

The Ontario Reds registered their 11th straight victory and avenged an early season defeat Sunday when they turned back the Mansfield Merchants, 8 to 4, at Liberty park.

Led by Smith, who collected four hits, Ontario went into the lead in the second inning, and never trailed thereafter.

Tucker started on the hill for the visitors, but was replaced by Patterson in the eighth when the Merchants threatened.

Mohicans Rip Springs, 6-2

Potye, Boyer Allow Losers Only Three Hits.

The Mohican Chevrolets made good use of their eight hits at they defeated Sulphur Springs, 6 to 2, at Sulphur Springs Sunday.

Potye started on the mound for the Chevrolets, and pitched brilliantly until the eighth when the hosts put two runs across the plate. Boyer, who replaced him, kept Sulphur Springs away from the plate the rest of the way.

The Mohicans scored two runs in the first, one each in the second, third and fourth innings, and then didn't score again until the ninth. Only three hits were permitted the losers.

Bishop, with two singles, and Olin, with a home run, led the Mohicans.

Aces Win In 10th Inning

Schuster and Jocha Star in Victory Over Columbus.

In a nip-and-tuck game that was decided in the 10th inning, Remy's Sunoco Oils girls' softball team edged the touted Wilke Meats of Columbus, 10 to 9, at North park Sunday.

The Oils held a 9 to 5 lead going into the ninth inning, but the visitors tied it up with a four-run rally.

Schuster, who hurled for the Aces, led the attack for the Mansfield team with a home run and two singles. Jocha pounded out a triple and double.

3-Way Tie Features Coolridge Qualifier

Schadek, Keck and Bell Shoot 74's to Share Medal Honors In Annual Club Tournament.

TONY SCHADEK, Red Keck and Claire Bell fashioned 74's in the qualifier completed over the week-end at Coolridge to tie for medal honors in the annual club tournament. The medal prize will be determined Saturday in an 18-hole play-off involving the three low scorers.

Next low in the qualifier were Steve Stirtzinger, Roy Rachel and Nick Loris, who shot 75's. Pete Schemine carded a 76, John Fisch, 77; James Carse, 78; Carl Rancinger, Jake Kutchall and Frank Lay, 80's; Ralph Beilstein, 84, Jerry Bigler, 89; and Harry Case, 91.

First round pairings follow: Keck vs. Bye, Fisch vs. Carse, Stirtzinger vs. Beilstein, Rachel vs. Lay, Schadek vs. Case, Schemine vs. Rancinger, Bell vs. Bigler, Loris vs. Kutchall. Mike Ziway, 1937 champion, did not enter the qualifier this year.

Prizes at stake in the Coolridge tournament this season include a season membership for 1939 to low qualifier, half year membership for second low, full year memberships to club champion and first flight winner and half year memberships to runners-up in the two divisions. Losers in the championsaip division will make up the first flight.

BROTHERS TO MEET AT POSSUM RUN

A SEMI-FINAL match involving brothers will feature the semi-final play in the Possum Run tournament.

CAMPBELL PROVES VALUE TO CLEVELAND IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — The major league's most courageous player—Bruce Campbell—again today was proving his value to the Cleveland Indians.

Campbell, a young outfielder who refused to let two attacks of meningitis rob him of a baseball career, has clinched the rightfield job for the remainder of the season by his brilliant play during a five-game series with the Chicago White Sox which ended yesterday with Cleveland taking the rubber contest 6 to 4.

In the five games Campbell hammered out 10 hits. Included in his barrage were a home run, two triples and a double. He secured two hits yesterday, one of which was a three bagger.

Campbell was one of the big guns in the heavy attack the Indians unlimbered at the expense of the elongated Monty Stratton and John Rigney. Hal Trosky, Kent Keltner and Sammy Hale also hit safely twice.

The deciding blow of the game however, was struck by Earl Averill. The veteran outfielder slammed out his 12th nome run of the season in the eighth inning to break a 4 to 4 tie. A single by Trosky, a wild pitch, a walk and another single by Hale gave the tribe its second run of the inning and its final one of the contest.

Manager Oscar Vitt had to use four pitchers to gain the triumph. Earl Whitehill started and worked six innings. Then Johnny Humphries came on to work two-thirds of an inning and had to retire when struck on his pitching arm by a drive from Rip Radcliff's bat. Kenny Jungles replaced him and gained credit for the victory. Mel Harder was rushed in after Jungles walked the first man to face him in the ninth.

Despite the victory Cleveland lost ground in the pennant race as the New York Yankees swept both ends of a double-header from Philadelphia.

The Indians are not scheduled today. They return to Cleveland tomorrow to open a series with St. Louis.

WESTBROOK PLAY GOES INTO THIRD ROUND

WITH one exception, the matches in the second round of the Westbrook Country club tournament were completed over the week-end.

The only match not played paired Burleigh Drummond, the medalist, against R. C. Cosgrove, and the tournament committee is expected to rule this delayed match a victory for Drummond on a default as the latter has not been in the city.

Second round matches found a number of the heavily-backed contenders dropping by the wayside. Among those eliminated in the championship flight were Bill Black, jr., Howard Sotzen and Gene Zediker. Results follow:

First flight— Paul Auxter defeated W. J. Spreng, 4-3; E. A. Eisele defeated Bill Black, jr., one up; Chet Eisenberger defeated A. I. Canzols Cinch Senior Title

Play All-Stars Thursday at Liberty Park.

The championship race in the city recreation Senior baseball league is cut and dried.

The Ira D. Canzols are "in," without a team closer than four games to them.

Ten straight games have been registered by the Canzols, and not a single defeat has been experienced. Ontario is in second place with four defeats.

The league schedule will come to a close Wednesday, and the Canzols will meet an all-star Senior league team Thursday at Liberty park. But play will not be completed for the first top four league teams until the Shaughnessy playoff is finished. This series will open Friday.

In regularly scheduled games this week, Liberty park meets the Eagles at Liberty park Tuesday, and the lodgemen tackle the Friendly House Weduesday.

The city recreation Junior and Intermediate league teams returned to action at the Fairground today.

Cabs to Meet Strong Teams

The DeLuxe Cabs, runners-up in the district softball tournament, will meet a number of strong out-of-town and Mansfield teams before the conclusion of the season, Dick Van Dyne, who backs the team, announced today. The schedule of games will be completed this week.

The Cabs, who lost to the Beeber-Ross Beers in the district finals Sunday, won over the Westinghouse club, 4 to 1, at Johns park last Friday. Ben Fried scattered seven hits for the Westies, whose only score came in the second.

The Cabs scored one in the first and won the game in the third when Forman broke the tie with a home run. The De Luxe teams put the game on ice in the ninth with two more tallies.

Announces Lineup For All-Star Team

Orville Kibler, city recreation baseball director, today announced the players who will perform with the Junior league all-stars when they face the Giants, circuit leaders, in the annual all-star game at League park at 5:45 p. m. Tuesday.

The players follow: Hahn, Cubs, 1b; Brooks, Dodgers, 2b; Dials, Reds, 3b; Urschel, Cards, ss; Butterfield, Cards, Shafer, Bees, and Reece, Cubs, outfield; Millers, Dodgers, Bader, Reds, and Donnan, Phillies, pitchers, and Ropp, Cards, and Nameth, Reds, catchers.

No games will be played in the Junior league Tuesday aftternoon due to the all-star game.

BROWN HITS HOME RUN, THREE SINGLES IN WIN

Led by First Baseman Brown, who cracked out a home run and three singles, the Johns park juniors routed the Ramblers, 14 to 4, in a softball game at Johns park yesterday. Bud Pittman limited the Ramblers to five scattered hits, but was in trouble occasionally because of wildness.

CABS FACE CLOTHIERS IN HEADLINE MATCH

Topping The News-Journal Class A golf league schedule at Possum Run, today, is a match between the DeLuxe Cabs and Goldsmith Clothiers. The Cabs, who hold down second place, hold a one-point advantage over the Clothiers.

The Richland Printers, two points ahead of the Cabs, face the Big Three Beers. The Matthes Clothiers and Yuncker Sports tangle in the other match.

Ferrell Kicked Up

Former Indian Released by Senators Signs With Yankees.

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wesley Cheek Ferrell, one of baseball's hard-to-handle lads, awoke today to find himself a member of the Yankees, with a very good chance of cutting in on the World Series plum.

Wes, possessor of an excellent fast ball a few years back, has found the path to success tough in recent seasons due not so much to his loss of speed, but rather his frequent displays of temper.

Chance For Proof.

The story is that's part of the reason the Senators handed him his unconditional release last week. But whatever the cause of his leaving Washington, Ferrell is definitely with the Yankees. It is within his power to gain a starting berth, if his early efforts reveal he still "has it."

Wes Ferrell

Ferrell can be the Yankees' last bit of assurance in winning the pennant if he adds to his present record of 13 wins and eight losses.

Acquisition of Ferrell was especially timely because the Yankees lost the services of Joe Vance, rookie relief pitcher who has been stricken with appendicitis and probably will be out for the rest of the season.

The Yankees increased their lead to 7½ games yesterday by taking a double header from the Athletics, 4 to 3 and 9 to 2 as the Indians won a single contest from the White Sox 6 to 4.

Spud Chandler and Monte Pearson pitched steadily and two homers by Lou Gehrig and one each by George Selkirk and Bill Dickey finished the A's.

With Harry Kelley pitching five hit balls and knocking in three runs the Senators beat the Red Sox, 7 to 1.

In St. Louis, Buck Newsom held the Tigers to one lone hit to win the opener of a twin bill, 7 to 1, and the second game was called on account of darkness after nine innings with the tally 3-all.

The giants ran rough shod over the Phillies, 11 to 0 and 14 to 6 on a 34-hit attack. The Phils contributed 10 errors in the two contests.

With Johnny Rizzo hitting for the circuit the Pirates shut out the Cubs, 2 to 0 but dropped to within four and a half of the Giants.

Hurls 3-Hitter.

The Dodgers and Bees split a twin bill as Fred Fitzsimmons hurled three hit ball to win the opener 2 to 0, and Lou Fette evened matters for the Bees in the nightcap, 6 to 4 by taking his ninth win of the year.

Harry Craft's homer aided the Reds in a 5 to 4 triumph over the Cardinals in the opener, but Joe Medwick's circuit clout paced the Cards' 8 to 1 win in the nightcap as Clyde Shoun pitched six hit ball.

Points to Appalling U. S. Accident Toll

Almost 10,000,000 persons were disabled by accident injuries during the year of 1937—at least one member of every fourth family in the United States, according to data released by the National Safety council. Ralph C. Stanton, Mansfield insurance broker, points out.

Permanent disabilities were caused to 375,000 of these injured — affecting one in every 85 families. There were 106,000 killed, one in each 300 on the average.

The economic costs of the 1937 accidents included wage losses, anticipated future earnings, medical expense, costs of insurance, and property damage in fires and motor vehicle accidents, amounted to $3,600,000,000—an average of $115 for every family in the nation.

The council says: "Accidents during 1937 were the fatality equivalent of a Los Angeles flood every 12 hours — a Hindenburg Zeppelin explosion every three hours.

"All accidental injuries during 1937 totaled a million more than the number of people living in all the New England states; the total exceeded by 3,000,000 the entire population of Ohio."

Of all accidental deaths last year, there was one every five minutes, 12 each hour, 290 per day, 2,000 each week, and a total of 106,000 killed during the year.

Of all accidental injuries there were one every three seconds, 19 per minute, 27,000 per day, 190,000 per week, and a total of 9,900,000 injuries in 1937, with 375,000 permanently disabled.

Motor vehicle deaths occurred every 13 minutes or 108 per day for a total of 39,500. Three persons per minute were injured by autos, or 3,700 per day for a total of 1,360,000 for the year.

Though motor vehicle accidents again led in the cause of deaths, all the 106,000 accidental deaths occurred as follows:

Motor vehicle	37,500
Other public	19,000
Home	32,000
Occupational	17,150

This amazing toll of accidents and the enormous cost to the injured and the killed and their families, should impell each one who earns an income, to insure that income against loss to him or herself and family, Mr. Stanton contends.

Mr. Stanton, whose office is in the Walpark building, says "Perfect Protection" insures fully, all income losses due to accident, sickness, disease, or death.

NORTON'S INTRODUCE 'TAWPS' CUSHION LEATHER HEELS HERE

"Tawps," which give a cushioned effect to the leather heels of women's shoes are being introduced in Mansfield by Norton's Shoe Repair Service, 46 West Third street.

Constructed under a patented process, "Tawps" are small wedges of rubber dovetailed into the leather at the outside point of heels where the greatest wear occurs.

The leather and rubber portions are locked together under compression and are backed up with a piece of fiber which unifies both parts into a rigid heel. Underneath the fiber is a thin piece of celluloid for supplying proper trimming and which also prevents the heel covering from pushing out.

Tests throughout the country have revealed that women's heels with "Tawps" wear twice as long as the old-fashioned leather heels, W. F. Norton, proprietor of Norton's Shoe Repair Service says.

In addition, they are the last word in comfort and appearance while the noiseless feature alone has won them a host of friends, he points out.

A product of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, "Tawps" were first presented a year ago in Canada and since then one shop alone has applied 15,000 pairs.

Introduction of "Tawps" in Mansfield by the Norton Shoe Repair Service is in line with the shop's policy of constantly seeking improvements and advancements in the field of shoe rebuilding. Although a veteran of 30 years at his trade, Mr. Norton is ever alert for new methods and products to serve his customers.

Dividends Off 32 Pct. In July

Stockholders in 837 companies were voted disbursements totaling $190,2 million in July, smallest amount for this period since 1935 and 32.4 per cent less than the $281.5 million authorized by 984 directorates a year ago.

Despite the month's relatively poor showing, payments approved since the first of the year aggregate $1.8 billion, only 21.7 per cent under 1937's comparable $2.3 billion and 12.5 per cent above the $1.6 billion confirmed in the initial seven months of '35.

Significant to stockholders in these 837 companies, at least, should be the fact that income from their investments was off only 22 per cent although latest available compilation of half-year net incomes, issued by New York's National City Bank, shows a decline of 69 per cent in average industrial earnings.

COAL TAR PRODUCTS

Chemists have found a method of using coal tar products to supplement or replace flowers in making perfumes and thus supply us with much less expensive perfumes and a greater variety of them.

BETTER FOODS

Industrial research experts have devised better methods of preserving food through smoking, salting, corning, brining and drying. Long ago, spices were employed to prevent eaters from smelling the spoiling food they sometimes had to consume.

KILLS RED SPIDERS

Chemists have produced a new dusting powder for destroying red spiders in citrus groves.

Complete Blue Print Service Available Here

When it comes to blue prints, the Richland Blue Print Service, 115 Bird building, has all the answers.

The shop operates a complete reproduction service for engineering and drafting room needs. This includes the making of blue prints, the copy of architest's working plans; black and white direct process prints; Van Dyke negatives and blue line prints.

The services of Richland Blue Print are not limited to this field, however. It also maintains a modern photostat service which reproduces quickly and economically any subject without the aid of a negative.

There are hundreds of uses for photostat prints and one of the most important is that it is recognized by the courts as legal copy in place of the original. As a result, it is a common practice in business and government to have photostat copies made of important papers and documents.

In addition, Richland Blue Print carries a complete line of engineering and drafting room supplies, such as tracing paper and tracing cloth, drafting intrument, drawing sets, drafting room furniture and various other products needed in these fields.

DEMAND SETS PRICE

VIENNA—(AP)—English lessons used to cost only 37 to 50 cents an hour here. But now there is a rush of business from persons wishing to escape from Nazi rule to America or England, and the price has gone up to $2.25-$2.50 an hour.

Fuel Savings Will Pay for Storm Sash

A house fitted with storm sash and storm doors saves from 25 to 33 per cent in fuel bills, Harry A. Parker, Mansfield representative of the Gordon-Van Tine company, says.

"Storm sash really cost nothing because every cent spent comes back in fuel savings and added winter comfort," Parker contends.

He points out that no matter how well made and well fitted windows are, they are bound to let a large amount of heat escape on cold winter days.

Experiments have shown that cold air rushing against the outside of the glass chills the glass and lowers the temperature in the vicinity of the window from 10 to 15 degrees. Storm sash form a dead air space which serves as a blanket of insulation between the outside cold and warmth of the room.

Gordon-Van Tine storm sash are made of Ponderosa pine which is acclaimed as the best wood for this purpose. It is light, storm and weatherproof.

The thousands of storm sash available at Gordon-Van Tine mills are just one item that goes into the building and remodeling of homes. It is rated as the world's largest concern selling building material direct to the consumer.

Everything for building, repairing or remodeling—from a can of paint to a paint brush; from a screen door to complete millwork for a home; from 10 feet of oak flooring to 10 carloads of lumber are sold by this firm.

Mr. Parker, the Mansfield representative of Gordon-Van Tine, is located in the Walpark building.

PAM— Careful! By A. W. Brewerton

ALONE IN THE OFFICE, PAM HAS A PHONE CALL— A MAN'S DEEP VOICE! THOUGH STARTLED, SHE FEELS PRETTY THOROUGHLY CONVINCED THAT HE IS THE OWNER OF THE BILLFOLD!
WAS THERE ANY MARK OF ANY KIND ON THE— BILLFOLD? —OH, THERE WAS A TRADE-MARK?
8-15
CONVINCED THOUGH SHE WAS THAT THE UNKNOWN CLAIMANT MUST BE AUTHENTIC, PAM HESITATED ABOUT ACKNOWLEDGING IT— SOMETHING SEEMED TO WARN HER TO PROCEED CAREFULLY!
SUDDENLY A PLAN OF PROCEDURE PRESENTED ITSELF TO HER—
VERY WELL— I WILL GIVE THIS DESCRIPTION TO THE PARTY WHO HAS THE BILLFOLD— COULD YOU— —CALL AGAIN IN THE MORNING, OR COME UP?
OH, NO— I COULDN'T GET IT FOR YOU— YOU WILL HAVE TO WAIT AND SEE— ANOTHER PARTY— I ASSURE YOU, IF IT IS YOUR PROPERTY THAT IT IS QUITE SAFE!— WHERE CAN WE REACH YOU? — WHAT IS— OH, YOU WILL CALL IN THE MORNING? —GOOD!
GOODNESS! HOW INSISTENT HE WAS! WANTED TO GET IT AT ONCE! HE— HE MUST BE THE OWNER ALL RIGHT— BUT I DIDN'T LIKE TO TURN IT OVER TO HIM ALL ALONE HERE— BESIDES IT'S LOCKED UP IN COLONEL CAREY'S STRONG-BOX IN THE SAFE!

Like some politicians before them, the two clever apes will be engaged in a little shakedown. Difference is their object is coconuts and not graft.

JUDGE PUFFLE By Gene Ahern

THERE'S A COUPLE GUYS HERE IN THE HOTEL, PETE, THAT I THINK WILL BE SOFT CLIPS!— ONE IS CALLED JUDGE PUFFLE AND THE OTHER WEARS A COWBOY HAT!— — I OVERHEARD THE FAT ONE. THE JUDGE TALKING IN THE LOBBY ABOUT HIS WILD WEST PAL BEING IN HEAVY CURRENCY WITH HIS BIG CATTLE RANCH AND MINING PROPERTY!—
I'VE BEEN WATCHING 'EM!— THEY BOTH TAKE A BIG LEAD OFF FIRST,— A CINCH TO FREEZE BETWEEN BASES!— I'LL BE FRONT MAN AND GET AN INTRODUCTION OVER AN UPSET MARTINI!— THEN I'LL SPIN OUT TH' WEB THAT WE'RE COFFEE-GROWERS FROM BRAZIL!— I'VE SEEN THE COWBOY PEEL OFF FIFTIES LIKE ARTICHOKE PETALS!

STOCK MARKET RECOVERS FROM 'WAR JITTERS'

Advances Run Up to 4 Points as Brokers Disregard European Reports.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market today recovered from its newest case of European "war jitters." Leaders gained a point and more while advances in Blue Chips ran to more than 4 points.

Among the big gains were over 4 in DuPont at its peak, 2 in Allied Chemical, nearly 3 in Case Threshing, and 2 each in Westinghouse and Philip Morris.

The steel shares were better from the start when small gains were chalked up. The advance was extended later, with U. S. Steel up over a point but there was a recession from the highs in the second hour.

General Motors opened unchanged on 2,000 shares and then moved up for a gain of more than a point. It lost part of this later. Chrysler advanced a point also.

U. S. Rubber was another to start with 2,000 shares. Its initial gain was more than a point and it held later. Other rubbers improved.

The oil shares showed an improving tendency except for Socony Vacuum, which was easy. The railroad shares started lower but moved up as the session progressed and substituted small gains.

The farm implements, among the weakest in last week's decline, snapped back. In addition to the wide gain in Case, International Harvester rose over a point.

'Cop Hater' Felled After Firing Into 250 N. Y. Officers

NEW YORK—(AP)—Police delved into obscure phases of simple psychiatry today attempting to determine what started Charles San Fillippo on the "cop hating" career that ended in his death as the climax of a two-gun attack on 250 policemen at a Central Park memorial service.

Thousands of horrified Sabbath strollers saw the madman, about 40, precipitate a brief pitched battle in which five persons—two of them policemen—were wounded.

"I was going to try to kill as many cops as I could," he muttered as he lay dying with at least 20 police bullet wounds in the head.

He came upon the outdoor memorial almost unoticed yesterday afternoon, packing a rifle and a shotgun. Shots from a double-barrel shotgun shattered the solemnity and in a wink most of the 250 policemen drew service revolvers and poured volleys at the retreating figure.

San Filippo slumped to the ground and gasped his dying hatred of cops, a hatred evidenced in two traffic summonses found in his possession.

SENSATIONS IN U. S. PROBE OF REDS PROMISED

Witness Claims Communists Obtain Jobs on Faculties of Universities.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John P. Frey, American Federation of Labor leader, bluntly suggested today to a house committee investigating un-American activities that it direct some of its attention to the federal government departments.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Dies house un-American activities committee will bare testimony this week said to reveal communist invasion of eastern universities, New York schools and the WPA theater project.

Sensational testimony was promised today as the result of secret work of committee investigators. The witnesses will include an eastern professor, who, it is understood, will assert that communists have secured places on the faculties of many universities. Communist activity among both teachers and school children in the New York area is also expected to be the subject of testimony.

Evidence to show that communists have gained a strong foothold in the WPA theater project is scheduled to be presented.

As the committee resumed hearings, John P. Frey, chairman of the Metal Trades division of the American Federation of Labor, promised to supply the committee with names of additional communists working in the labor movement.

Called For Proof.

Frey, who on Saturday submitted names of hundreds of persons he said are communists active in John L. Lewis' CIO, was to be called upon for proof of his assertion that the Communists have officially endorsed the CIO.

Frey, who declared that the A. F. of L. is fighting communism to prevent the possibility of a dictatorship, was expected to take two days to finish presentation of the results of his long investigation into communism in the labor movement.

Investigation of charges made by Edward Sullivan, west coast investigator, that officials of the U. S. labor department have advised Harry Bridges, maritime leader, how to escape deportation because of his alleged membership in the communist party, is expected.

Sullivan made the charge in a special report to Chairman Dies. Asserting that there is evidence to show that Bridges was a communist, Sullivan's report said:

"Evidence is also available to show that Bridges received aid and advice from officials of the labor department while patriotic citizens were trying to have him deported for his communistic activities.

"Witnesses can be produced who can name the day and date when an official of the immigration service contacted Harry Bridges and called him to his office, where he read to him a confidential letter of instructions on his future behavior, written by an outstanding official of the labor department."

In his report, Sullivan declared that millions of dollars has been lost through "unbridled and unchecked communist activity on the west coast."

RITES SET FOR R. H. SHERRY, 65

LUCAS — The body of R. H. Sherry, 65, who died Saturday night in St. Louis, Mo., will be returned here for burial Tuesday afternoon. Rev. R. C. Goebel of St. Peter's Catholic church, Mansfield, will officiate at brief services at 2 p. m. at the cemetery.

Mr. Sherry, who was an engineer for the Frisco railroad for several years, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Daisy McCreary Sherry; and several relatives in the Lucas and Mansfield communities, including Mrs. Cora Fletcher of Lucas, and Mrs. Alice Collins, Mansfield, both sisters-in-law.

The body is to be brought to the Bierly funeral home here tonight.

Crap Game's Uninvited 'Players' Flee With $1,000.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP)—The only winners in a crap game at a secluded spot near here were four uninvited "players." They took the entire "pot," estimated at $1,000.

The uninvited guests, well armed, met each caravan of invited players as they arrived at the densely wooded area and persuaded them to give their entire resources and then lie on the ground.

CHILD INJURED

CRESTLINE — Cleora, eight-year-old daughter of George Weber, of North Columbus street, fell while playing with a group of other children Friday afternoon and fractured her right leg, half way between the knee and ankle. She was taken to Emergency hospital for x-ray and later was removed to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Koontz, on North Columbus street, where she resides.

CALL ON STATE FOR RELIEF AID

Madison Trustees, County Board Seek Data on New Borrowing Plan.

Madison township trustees and county commissioners went to Columbus today to see what could be done about borrowing funds to finance the township relief load for the balance of this year.

Officials were to meet with the state tax commission to see what funds are available to the county's sub-divisions under the borrowing plan, enacted recently by the legislature, which permits the issuance of notes against anticipated state taxes.

The plan calls for the issuance of notes against 90 per cent of anticipated receipts on beer, malt, wort, admissions and public utility excise taxes through 1941.

Meanwhile the city administration today was ready to make application to commission for borrowing approximately $30,000, under the same plan to pay off its relief bills.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter explained that City Solicitor Marion D. Ward had been instructed to draft legislation, which he hopes to present to council at its next session, that will authorize the filing of the application with the tax commission.

Madison township officials took the borrowing plan under consideration at a special meeting last Friday when County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott told them that they were liable personally for all obligations incurred while their relief funds were exhausted.

The township is now $3,000 in arrears on payments of relief bills.

In the handicap tournament for women, Mrs. Archibald Beach defeated Mrs. George Keeler, Mrs. M. E. Epperson won from Mrs. H. H. Rouzer, and Mrs. H. D. Harland forfeited to Florence Holmes.

Other matches will be continued this week.

SEIZE $600,000 OPIUM SHIPMENT

Treasury Agents Get Haul of Illicit Drug At Pier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The treasury announced the seizure of a Brooklyn pier today of the largest single shipment of illicit opium in more than a decade.

Elmer L. Irey, treasury enforcement co-ordinator, said 1,330 five-tael tins of opium were found on a boat belonging to Frank R. McCann of Brooklyn. McCann was taken to the customs house in New York for questioning.

Treasury officials said the quantity seized was worth about $600,000.

CONFER TODAY ON SEWER RENT

City Officials Go to Capital to Iron Out Details of O. S. R. Charges.

City officials today were in Columbus negotiating with the state welfare department for the renewal of the sewer rental contract for the Mansfield reformatory which calls for an increase of 900 per cent over the rate that expired last March.

Welfare directors four months ago had agreed to an increased rate as provided by the new city ordinance and it was expected that the contract would be returned to the city.

However, Mayor Claude M. Hunter said he had received word from the welfare department that it was not satisfied with the terms in the contract. Hunter was accompanied by City Engineers Alvin C. Mock and Glenn Weller.

The new proposal is based on new sewer rental charge that went into effect in 1937 when the new sewage disposal plant was built. The rate under this plan is determined by the quantity of water used.

Under the terms of the former contract, entered into in 1928, the institution paid a sewer rental based on a monthly population which amounted to approximately $900 annually.

The new proposal if accepted by the welfare department, would cost the state $8,000 annually and would be in effect for only one year.

Stepping on Gas Hard On Purse, Motorists Find

Three Mansfield motorists found tramping on the gas hard on the purse when hailed into municipal court today on charges of careless and reckless driving. Each was assessed $10 and costs.

Convicted on a charge of speeding at 49 miles an hour on South Main street Saturday, Frank Wagner, Bowman street, was fined $10 and costs. Judge Kalbfleisch suspended the fine on condition of good behavior.

John J. Tesch, jr., 37 Myers avenue, and Donald L. Remy, 90½ East Second street, both were fined $10 and costs when they pleaded guilty to charges of careless and reckless driving filed by state highway patrolmen.

They were arrested Saturday night on U. S. route 42, north of Mansfield.

Watermelon Puts Out Blaze In Auto After Wreck.

KENTON — (INS) — If no fire-extinguisher is available, use a watermelon.

The new use for the field delicacy had been discovered today by a passerby who seized a watermelon and used it effectively when a car driven by C. O. McVey, of Lima, burst into flames after colliding with a wagon driven by Russell Reams, west of Kenton.

RECORD FALLS

Playgrounds Set New Mark of 23,400 Kiddies for Week.

A new attendance record was set for the summer season at Mansfield Playgrounds last week when 23,416 children participated in various activities, according to Playground Director Al Fendrick.

The new record is an increase of 5,302 over the previous week's attendance, and an increase of 1,676 over the previous high mark of 21,740 set during the sixth week the grounds were open. A total of 10,464 spectators witnessed the various events last week.

A steady increase in attendance has been shown during seven of the eight weeks the grounds have been open.

Supervised play will continue at the 12 grounds for two more weeks, with final activities scheduled for Friday, Aug. 26.

DAD PAYS STORK WITH PENNIES

New Father Has 7,000 For Hospital And 5,600 For Doctor.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Four-day old Dolores Mae Perk is what one might call a "penny-ante" baby. Yesterday her father, George J. Perk, 26, walked into St. Ann's maternity hospital here and placed 7,000 pennies, wrapped in bundles of 50 and weighing 40 pounds, on a desk in front of astounded office attendant.

"That's to pay for our baby," he said. "My wife and I started to save them two years ago."

The Perks have an additional 5,000 pennies, he said, to pay Dr. James L. Kocour for his services.

J. P. FOLTZ DIES AT CRESTLINE

Crawford County Native to Be Buried Tuesday; Had Been Married 60 Years.

CRESTLINE — J. Peter Foltz, 88, died at his home at 714 East Main street Sunday at 1:15 p. m. after several months' illness of complications.

He was born on a farm near Bucyrus on Jan. 7, 1850, and at the age of 18 months moved with his family to Crestline, and he has resided here ever since. His marriage to Miss Mary Johnson occurred on Sept. 12, 1877.

They celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last September.

Mr. Foltz was a carpenter in the Pennsylvania railway shops until he retired about 18 years ago.

Surviving with the widow are three children, Mrs. A. M. Tullis of Scott street, Philip Foltz of East Bucyrus street, this city, and Mrs. C. M. Stephans of Sylvania.

There also are two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Mary Ross of Pierce street, Mrs. Susie Bauer, and William Foltz of East Main street, all of this city; also seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church with the pastor, Rev. Charles H. Lange, officiating. Burial will be in Crestline cemetery.

SEES MOONEY'S RELEASE SOON

Labor Leader's Attorney Says He'll Be Free In 6 Months.

SAN FRANCISCO— (INS) —Tom Mooney, San Francisco preparedness day bomber, will be walking the streets a free man within six months, according to George T. Davis, his attorney.

Davis made his prediction in a talk before 6,000 persons at a Mooney-Billings protest meeting here.

"Mooney will be freed, either by action of the United States supreme court or by the election of a Democratic governor in California," Davis declared.

CRESTLINE—Mrs. John Blaising of Scott street was admitted to Emergency hospital Sunday evening and underwent a minor operation this Monday morning.

HINT AT CONTEST FOR DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE POST

Rumors Assert Kallmerten to Have Rival If He Seeks Chairmanship Again.

Complete reorganization of both Democratic and Republican central committees in Richland county, with new leaders heading the parties for the November campaign, loomed as a possibility today.

While party leaders declined to make definite pronouncements concerning the outcome of reorganization sessions scheduled for Saturday at the courthouse, it was learned that the victorious Sawyer backers in the county may attempt to replace E. B. Kallmerten, Democratic executive chairman, with one of their group.

G. A. Baer, former Democratic chairman and head of the Sawyer forces in the county during the primary campaign, appeared as the logical candidate for the post.

Asserting that "I am 100 per cent for Sawyer as the party's candidate for governor," Kallmerten refused to say whether he would be a candidate for the party leadership again.

Was Davey Supporter.

A loyal Davey supporter during the campaign, Kallmerten has headed the county Democratic forces for the past two years.

"I'll be pretty busy with my state committee duties, and then a lot of things may happen before the central committee meets Saturday," Kallmerten commented.

M. W. Conley, another Davey backer, said he would not be a candidate for the central committee chairmanship again.

The election of former Mayor Earl A. McFarland to the state central committee from the 17th district and the success of McFarland precinct committee candidates in the county forecast a shake-up in the county G. O. P. machine.

While Ralph M. Hardy, present central committee chairman, said he would be a candidate for the same post again, it was believed that he too is eyeing the executive committee leadership.

Glenn L. Bierly, named executive chairman last year to succeed Carlton S. Fernyak, has announced that he will not seek re-election.

John Hess, youthful precinct committeemen in the first ward, was seen as a likely successor to Hardy as central committee chairman in the event Hardy wins the executive post.

Both Hardy and Hess were McFarland supporters in the primary. McFarland defeated R. B. Gardner for the state central committee post.

The Democratic central committee will meet at 2 p. m. Saturday in the common pleas courtroom, and the G. O. P. committee will convene at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in the probate courtroom.

Certifications of election were mailed today to successful candidates by the board of elections. A contest for central committeeman in precinct G of the First ward was settled when Walter Plank, tied with Ludwig Zahn with one vote each, was ruled out as a non-registered elector.

MRS. HORN DIES AT LOUDONVILLE

LOUDONVILLE — Mrs. Dora Horn, 79, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Helbert, here Sunday at 1 p. m.

She is survived by her daughter and a son, Walter Horn of Shreve; a brother, Robert Jones of north of Loudonville, and two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Miller and Mrs. J. H. Buller, both of Akron.

Funeral services will be held at the Helbert home at 3 p. m. Tuesday in charge of Rev. W. Rohrbaugh of Canal Fulton. Burial will be in McKay cemetery.

JOHN TO START $18-A-WEEK JOB

President's Youngest Son Brings Bride Back to Boston.

BOSTON—(U.P.)—John Roosevelt, youngest son of the president, brought his bride of two months back to Boston today and prepared to go to work as an $18-a-week department store employe.

Young Roosevelt and the former Anne Lindsay Clark arrived here aboard the S. S. Lady Drake after a Bermuda honeymoon trip. They were greeted at Commonwealth pier by the bride's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, and sister, Miss Sally Clark.

Young Roosevelt will begin work at the William Filene's Sons company department store late this month.

G. W. SIMON, 81, DIES AT GALION

Crawford County Native, Erie Railroad Dispatcher, to Be Buried Wednesday.

GALION—George W. Simon, 81, of 144 North Washington street, died Sunday at 6:20 p. m., of complications. He had been bedfast for the past three weeks.

He was born in Galion, June 9, 1857, the son of George and Mary Haubach Simon. His marriage was to Margaret Rettig on May 13, 1880, and she died Feb. 10, 1919.

Surviving are two daughters and a son, Mrs. G. B. Schneeberger of Lakewood, Mrs. H. F. Price of Galion; and Frank H. Simon of Galion; three grandchildren; two brothers, John of Toledo, and Ed Simon of Galion. A son, William, and a daughter, Mae, preceded him in death.

Mr. Simon was a lifelong resident of Galion, and was an engine dispatcher on the Erie railroad for a number of years.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Snyder funeral home. Rev. P. E. Auer, pastor of the Peace Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

TWO TRUSTIES CAUGHT, BUT 2 MORE GET AWAY

Inmates Seized by Ashland Sheriff as They Walk Along Highway.

Two Mansfield reformatory trusties who fled the institution farm last Friday while guards were searching for two other inmates who had escaped, today were back behind the walls of the institution following their capture near Ashland Saturday night.

But along with the two other inmates still at large were another pair, who made their getaway from the hog farm yesterday.

The two who were apprehended were taken into custody by Ashland County Sheriff H. F. Wallet as they hiked along the highway in their prison garb were Doyle Henderson, 19, and Homer Schaefer, 21. They walked away from a hayfield where they were working, three miles from the institution.

Serving Long Terms.

Henderson is serving a one to 20-year sentence for auto theft imposed in Marion county, Jan. 20. Schaefer was received at the reformatory since Feb. 7. He was received from Hamilton county on a one to 15-year sentence for burglary.

Both inmates will be given one year additional time as penalty for their escape, Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said.

The pair who escaped from the farm yesterday are Murrell Heckling, 23, and Elmer McCurdy, 29.

Heckling, who was to have been paroled Sept. 15, was serving a five to 30 year sentence for burglary and larceny. He was sentenced from Fulton county on Oct. 10, 1933. McCurdy was received Oct. 18, 1933, from Licking county for forgery and was under sentence from one to 20 years.

SPAIN TEACHES ITALY LESSON IN AIR WARFARE

Radical Changes in Design of Planes Planned as Duce Checks on Defects.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Italian warplanes will undergo radical changes in design as a result of lessons learned from their use in the Spanish civil war.

Aviation circles say the heavy bombers Premier Mussolini sent to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's aid, such as the Savoia 79, Savoia 81 and Fiat 20, have proved too slow and lacking in maneuverability in combat

The vibration of their three motors spoiled the gunners' aim and the mounting of the center motor obstructed their view.

A retractable machine-gun nest, a makeshift added to improve visibility, so reduced the planes' speed when it was lowered for action that pilots refused to handicap themselves by using it.

Airplane designers now are working on new planes in which these disadvantages will be eliminated. The objective is a cross between the bomber and pursuit ship, combining bomb-carrying capacity with high speed and flexibility. The new plane probably will have two motors instead of three.

Work for Speed.

Italian aviation experts want a plane which will fly 370 miles an hour with a cargo of bombs. One model now undergoing trials has reached 325 miles an hour, which is considered insufficient in comparison with the high velocity of military planes now being produced by foreign powers

When the air ministry has decided upon a new design it probably will buy the model and arrange for its construction in scores of decentralized factories. This was the method adopted to achieve mass production when the Italian aviation industry was placed upon war footing in 1936.

Meanwhile, customers for the outmoded planes are being sought among the smaller powers. Afghanistan, Iran and Yugoslavia already have signed up. Yugoslavia took 50 Caproni, Fiat and Savoia bombers which she arranged to pay for in wheat and raw materials.

Italy is modernizing her aviation general staff as well as her warplanes The officers who direct her military air policy now must have had recent experience in the wars of Ethiopia or Spain. Her world war aviators who once inhabited the air ministry have been relegated to posts of minor responsibility, many of them in the colonies.

To assure the aviation industry an adequate supply of wood, which is scarce in Italy, the government has imposed a monopoly on spruce lumber production. In this way it hopes to turn out planes composed entirely of native materials. The all-metal machines formerly produced contained about eight per cent imported materials.

NEW T. B. CASES

2 Discovered at Clinic Boosts Year's Total to 77.

Two new cases of tuberculosis have been discovered in Richland county, a report of the diagnostic clinic held last Friday under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron showed today.

Of the 17 suspects examined, two showed positive tests while 15 proved negative. One was a recheck case while the other was located in the county. Six Mansfield suspects showed negative tests as did seven county suspects.

Dr Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said the two new cases brings to 77 the total number of new cases found in the county since Jan. 1.

You're getting the same sort of heat without cost right now that you'd be paying for in Florida next winter.

No suggestions are invited on the soon-to-be-revived question of what to do with former governors, although there may be some very good ideas.

A lie detector says Corrigan knew he was headed toward Ireland all the time—thus proving what everybody had suspected. But, after all, it was more of a joke than a lie.

Don't Take School Safety for Granted.

SOME of the most horrifying fires in American history have occurred in school buildings—and, with conditions now existing in thousands of old public schools scattered throughout the country, there is constant danger of repetition of similar holocausts.

Fire hazards of the worst sort have been tolerated in some of these antiquated buildings—inadequate exits, improperly designed stair wells, narrow hallways down which children must pass, oil-soaked floors—these are only a few of the needless dangers to which school children are subjected in some of the old buildings regularly in use for school purposes.

Information has been received that the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 65 John St., New York City, has prepared an illustrated booklet entitled, "Construction of School Buildings and Existing Structures," and has also issued a school inspection blank, which has already been used in more than 1,500 communities to ferret out possible hazards in school buildings.

It is surely the right of every parent and of every school child to feel assured that all school buildings have been competently inspected and are as free from fire and health hazards as it is humanly possible to make them.

Tracy Styert Did His Work Well.

THE suddenness with which death came yesterday to Tracy C. Styert, Mansfield service-safety director, was a shock to this entire community, in which Mr. Styert had long been active in business and political life.

Native of Mansfield and descended from early settlers of Richland county, "Trace" Styert, as he was very generally known, became associated with his father in the meat business and continued in the business after the death of his father in 1901.

A Democrat in politics, Mr. Styert early evidenced an interest in public affairs and soon became an important factor in the political activities of the northeast portion of the city, in which he was a lifelong resident. By 1917 he was elected as councilman at large and served creditably in council for a number of years, finally being chosen as president of that body.

Following the election of Mayor Claude M. Hunter last fall, Mr. Styert was appointed to the position of service-safety director, for which his earlier experience made him well fitted.

It is with sincere regret that the many friends and acquaintances of Tracy Styert learn of his death. His was an example of interested citizenship that divides time between personal business and civic duties in a way that is needed in every city.

Public Water Power.

A PRINCIPLE of national interest comes to a head again in New York state. The constitutional convention in session has been fighting over the historic policy, upheld by a long series of New York statesmen, to keep the commonwealth's water power, as a natural public resource, under public control, instead of letting it be taken and exploited by private interests. The issue is of great importance because of the Niagara and St. Lawrence systems.

"We have here a principle," observes the New York Times, "which can well be embedded in basic law, rather than a policy which should be left open for legislative action. The principle is, as Governor Lehman expresses it, that 'the water power of the state, which belongs to all the people, should be developed for the benefit of all'."

By an amendment under consideration, the state would be free to distribute the power itself, or distribute it through a public corporation, or wholesale it to municipalities, cooperatives or private distributors.

A Prince's Education.

PRINCE FUMITAKA KONOYE, son of the premier of Japan, is not exactly a prodigal son, although he flunked all his majors at Princeton university last year. He told reporters in this country before he went home that his father "might be very angry." After all, when a young man is sent thousands of miles and to a foreign land to obtain an education, he isn't meeting his responsibility very well when he shirks the formal schooling in favor of the social life.

The premier seems not to have been angry, however. He has made the young man his official secretary and daily gives every appearance of enjoying his son's breezy ways and his American clothes and expressions.

Perhaps, after all, young Konoye was not expected to concentrate on scholarship but to learn western manners and ways of thinking. Japan needs accurate reporters of American opinion.

Italian Revival.

AT LAST it is clear that Mussolini is really in earnest about Italianizing Italy. Under Fascist auspices, the Merchants confederation in Rome is going to abandon foreign names for foods and drinks. There will be no more "hot dogs" or "cocktails" or "sandwiches" or "hors d'oeuvres" or other alien provender. That is, as far as the names are concerned. The edibles and drinkables, already established in the hearts of Italians, will have equivalent Italian names.

One may question what native equivalent there can be for "hot dog" or "cocktail," but that's Italy's problem.

Highway transportation has been making it tough for the railroads, and, as one writer comments, the outlook is omnibus.

Time was when college graduates "accepted a position"—now they try to find a job.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The senate is growing younger faster than it is gaining personality, a condition emphasized in recent days by the announced intention of Jim Ham Lewis of Illinois to withdraw with all his plumage.

The fact is, two elder members of the Senate have decided to turn in their chips, a pair of Senators as opposite in tone and temperament as it would be possible to find.

Besides Senator Lewis, Senator Hale of Maine has decided to quit at the end of another session. These things are perhaps of no great moment to the average American.

In his 20 years or more of Senate service, Hale probably never made more than a dozen speeches, each of which was written out in advance and delivered in the Senate in the manner of a New Englander who has set himself a stern, unpleasant duty and will perform it, come what may.

The quiet dress and wordless demeanor of Senator Hale was offset in multiple by Senator Lewis. He had a career as fascinating as his manner and dress. A colonel in the Spanish-American war, he broke into politics in far-off Seattle, representing the State of Washington for a time in Congress. Halfway across the continent he moved, to Chicago. There he was three times elected to the senate. During the war he was on special assignment by the president in Europe.

* * *

Style—Prose.

LEWIS spoke in the Senate in a manner that often was a torment to newsmen. If in the course of a speech he ever delivered a sentence of less than 20 words, it has escaped us. We once hunted out one that ran to 150 words, containing subject matter for at least three paragraphs and perhaps a couple of chapters.

The Senator at times has become so involved in a sentence that it seemed only prayer and fasting could rescue him. At other times when all seemed lost, and it became apparent to straining listeners that the subject had gone speeding down the main line leaving the predicate helpless on a siding, he would make a coupling that would confound any grammatical switchman. And if the above sentence looks complex, compare it with this Lewisic, lifted entire from the Congressional Record:

"If the time shall ever come when it shall be apparent that eminent leaders of the nation rise to oppose (America's) form of defense, however sophistical, however artful in phraseology, however analytical they may be, from their point of critical censure, when they seek to justify their opposition, still, sirs, the world can see only that at a critical time on the eve of great danger when all nations stand on tiptoe in their anxiety and zeal for conflict there are great senators of the United States, those who confront our country with every obstruction against carrying out the policy that would completely establish defense and assure the security of our country of America."

* * *

Style—Clothes.

JIM HAM'S courtly manner is a remnant of the Old South, for he is a Virginian born and educated, but his dress is a vision of the future. It is a 1950 version of the day of the plumed hat and beribboned breeches.

Taken independently, any one part of his garb might be monstrous. His wine-pink beard, on Borah, would wilt the entire Idaho potato crop. His sorrel suit, worn alone, would sour the milk in Wisconsin. But taken together and shaded under the haunting sweep of a soft felt hat not quite as pink as the beard nor as salmon as the vest, they arrest the eye, night or day.

There are some fussy dressers among the Senate's younger members, but their color efforts are anything but grand, nor is there yet a voice attuned to say in the Lewis style—"and, sirs, let these nations first pay their debts to us, and the Devil take England."

Timely Editorial

Careless Mailing.

Recent observance of the 163rd anniversary of the establishment of the U. S. postal service brought the customary plaintive admonition from the postoffice department concerning careless mailing habits of the American people.

Hundreds of thousands of illegibly or incompletely addressed letters wend their way every year to the dead letter office. Nearly 100,000 every 12 months gravitate thither, because they have no address or name on them at all. All the headaches which are caused by the confusion of such abbreviations as Mo. and Md., and Me., Cal. and Col., Va., Pa. and Vt. would, postal officials say, keep the makers of aspirin tablets busy for a long period.

These figures are almost incredible, but the postoffice department, accurate and sober and not given to over-statement, says they're right. They indicate that Americans must be the most careless or preoccupied—or something—people on earth.—Columbus Dispatch.

Plagues In China Alarm World

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The United States Public Health Service is not unmindful of the spread of cholera in war-torn China.

Other countries' health service undoubtedly are similarly perturbed.

In fact, the health section of the League of Nations already has broadcast a worldwide warning.

Incidentally the American Red Cross recently rushed 3,000,000 doses of anti-cholera vaccine to the Chinese, and a movement is afoot to finance a still more extensive campaign against the epidemic on the eastern Asiatic mainland.

* * *

PERIL

Of course these measures are actuated partly by sympathy for the afflicted Orientals. However, the medical authorities of Occidental governments are not entirely regardless of the peril of such a scourge in western lands. Strict quarantines are fairly effective but they are troublesome and not always completely airtight.

Japan (which isn't Occidental, to be sure) naturally is particularly worried.

The mikado can quarantine to the limit as to his home soil, but he cannot protect his troops in China itself, and it appears that the disease is making inroads in their ranks also. It is a grave danger to Japanese mainland activities, all right. The islanders are having plenty of trouble as it is, without having their fighting men die of cholera too fast.

* * *

UNFAIR BLAME

In this emergency Nippon's spokesmen have the brass to blame international health officialdom in Shanghai, on the ground that it has failed competently to deal with the situation in its balliwick.

Shanghai, be it understood, is Americanly and Europeanly governed and American and European doctors regulate its sanitation. They do a corking good job. They realize that China is a focus of intestinal disease and are specialists at fighting it within their jurisdiction. Nevertheless it has crept in, due to conditions created by Japanese military operations in the surrounding territory.

It is as if some violent contagion were rampant throughout the United States — and Manhattan's health department were criticized for failing to keep it north of the Bronx.

In short, Japan invaded a country which is susceptible to cholera. It started an epidemic. Probably it did so unintentionally. Certainly it did not intend to catch the germs itself. But Japan did it, and now tries to hold the international doctors in Shanghai responsible. Hardly needful to say, this is a mere excuse—and an extraordinarily poor one.

* * *

HOT WEATHER PLAGUES

Fortunately cholera is a hot weather disease, and we are getting on toward fall. Even if the western world does get a few cases, falling temperatures will be fairly good insurance against an epidemic.

It is reported that China is developing some bubonic plague, as well as cholera—but that likewise is a hot weather disease.

The next thing we are likely to hear, however, is that pneumonic plague is making its appearance among the Chinese. That is a winter disease, and China always has more or less of it when the thermometer is low. The coming winter, with millions of starving, homeless, nearly naked refugees available throughout the stricken republic, should be ideal for an epidemic of that sort.

And pneumonic plague is exportable too. Indeed, our own west coast had enough of it to cause the public health service considerable anxiety a few years ago.

* * *

TERRIBLE TOLL

Pneumonic plague is altogether different from the bubonic brand.

Bubonic is awful. It is a glandular trouble. Still, there are a few survivals. Pneumonic I take to be an aggravated form of influenza. Its mortality rate is close to 100 per cent. It used to be known as "black death," and in the middle ages it cut certain populations down by a quarter or one-third.

Causes and Cure of Lumbago.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE been asked by a southern correspondent to discuss lumbago.

Lumbago derives its name from the lumbar muscles—those massive and powerful muscles in the back on either side of the spinal column. Strictly speaking it is a pain in these muscles, but the name is applied to any pain in the back.

So in a larger sense a discussion of lumbago would be a discussion of backache. Which is too big a subject for us to take up here.

It is important, though, to know whether you have simple lumbago or backache due to other causes. There are many structures close to the lumbar muscles, and your "lumbago" may be due to arthritis of the spine or other disease of the bones thereabout, or to kidney disease or to spinal cord disturbance. Mr. Schmeling, at the date I am writing this, undoubtedly has a "lumbago" due to having come into violent contact with a swiftly moving body.

Most cases of lumbago, however, are simple and are due to changes in the lumbar muscles themselves. We say they are simple but that doesn't mean that lumbago doesn't hurt. On the contrary, it may be one of the most painful and annoying and crippling afflictions you can have. I have known cases to last for a year to 18 months.

Causes Listed.

The causes are:

(1) Sprain—lifting or twisting with the formation of little hemorrhages in the muscles, or tearing of small muscle fibers, or both.

(2) Cold—and especially a combination of cold and wet. Swimming in too cold water will do this. It is an iceman's disease, from carrying blocks of ice on the back.

(3) Infection lighting on these muscles from a faraway part of the body, as an infected or dead tooth or tonsil. This is the commonest cause.

In treatment, it is obvious from reading the list of causes that the paramount consideration is rest. Rest to allow the hemorrhages to be absorbed and rest to allow the torn muscles to heal, if injury or sprain is the cause. Rest to allow the inflammation to subside if infection is the cause.

Rest is especially important at first. Efforts to massage or rub out the pain during the first few days may prolong recovery indefinitely and add insult to injury.

After rest, heat. Any form of external heat. This gives relief from pain and also promotes healing. One of the best forms of heat is the hot domestic flat iron. The patient is laid face down. The skin is anointed with vaseline, then a flannel is laid down over it, and an iron as hot as can be stood moved up and down over the sore area.

Later on rubbing, manipulation and massage are in order.

A Farmer's Diary

Frog Legs for Supper.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

DOWN in our pasture, along a draw where, in spring, the water flows abundantly, I found today only the familiar swamp grass growing in thick bunches, with seed pods on the slender tops. The soil was moist in the lower places, but along the farther edges of this swale, the grass had withered.

The dragon fly, with outstretched wings, lit on a strong grass stem. He seemed content to bask leisurely in the warm sunshine. The honey bees flew down upon the surface of the soft damp earth; the mason wasp secured his wares for building. I saw a robin wing hurriedly down, to bathe, but found no water. I believe she must have used this pool many times before, for she looked about, bewildered and disappointed, and hesitated before she hopped away.

As I stood there, watching the wild things enjoy the moist mud of the ditch, I was startled by the great, high leaps of a large green frog. He kept steadily following the course of the low ground. The poor fellow seemed much excited, and his hind legs sent his slender, slippery body through the air, high above the grass tops . . . ten feet at a single bound.

Just back of his last leap, I saw a zigzag line of quivering grass. Then I understood. It was a race for life. There just in front of me, a graceful, curving blacksnake, five feet long, sped by . . . almost across my toes. I winced, but the snake was so intent upon the frog that he did not see me.

I followed the winding course, hoping to see the frog win out, but instead, about seventy steps beyond, I saw the grass move heavily. When I drew nearer, the snake already had the weary frog by its hind legs, and waving it back and forth, struck it hard upon the ground, until it scarcely moved. Then the widened jaws moved outward, and I saw the victim disappear.

Young America Asks---

Is the 'Corner Gang' Necessarily a Menace?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE AFFIRMATIVE is the general theory—backed by many a Sourpuss Sage. But here comes 17-year-old Edward Geary of Salem, Mass., with an indignant "NO!"... and some ideas that call for a round of cheers. Says Ed—

"I'M A MEMBER OF A CORNER GANG AND I'M PROUD OF IT! Every night we gather there in plain sight of everyone. We don't gamble, play cards, drink or scheme to break laws. That place is OUR CLUB, and in it we discuss and debate all the problems of the day—not just kid stuff, but political, economic and social theories.

"We're all poor—although most of us are employed—but we all long for educations and would do anything to get them. But we're born with two strikes against us, we haven't a chance. So we have to educate ourselves and we do so in that corner gang. The corner was always the natural meeting place for boys of the poorer classes, and you'd be surprised to know what good comes out of it. INDEED IT CAN WELL BE TERMED 'THE CRADLE OF LIBERTY.'

"The cop on the beat enters our arguments, gives his opinion of our debates and is in every way a friend to every member of our 'corner gang.' We are not petty thieves or future gangsters. I can say with some pride that the members of our 'corner gang' will all some day be of benefit to our community."

Edward Geary—age 17,
Salem, Mass.
($10 prize winner)

A grand letter, lad, and it's a strange heart, indeed, that won't beat with pride at the courage in it. And were I a Priest or Pastor in Salem, today, I'D BE USING THAT VERY LETTER FOR MY NEXT SERMON . . . AND ASKING GOD'S BLESSING . . . AND MAN'S LOVING FAITH . . . FOR "THE BOYS OF THE CORNER GANG!"

* * *

AND now, from another youngster, Frank Parnarauskis of Westville, Ill., there's an equally fine plea for—of all things—tougher college courses!

"Dear Miss Robinson, and Fellow Young Americans—

"I BELIEVE THAT THE LAX EDUCATIONAL STANDARDS OF OUR COLLEGES ARE DEMORALIZING THE STUDENTS AND UNDERMINING OUR VERY NATION.

"Our campuses are overflowing with young people, many of whom are mentally unfit to cope with stiff courses—or downright lazy and indifferent, just there to play. What's the result? Courses are shaped to fit the capacity of the dull student who is pushed along to get his degree while the real thinker is neglected.

"This method is contrary to that used in other countries, such as France and England, where the bright and dull student must bow to the rule of 'the survival of the fittest"...a seemingly harsh system but it turns out infinitely more reliable graduates than ours. These unqualified graduates of our colleges, by the mere virtue of their degrees, obtain positions of responsibility in our business, governmental and cultural worlds—with disastrous results.

"Let us abandon this method of education. Let's send to college only those mentally efficient so that in the future our government and society shall be led by real thinkers.

"A COLLEGE DEGREE IS A GREAT THING TO HAVE BUT ONLY IF IT STANDS FOR ACTUAL THOUGHT AND WORK."

Frank Parnarauskis—age 18,

NOW comes little Betty Margaret Crum of Lansing, Mich., with the last word—but a mighty lively one.

"SOME DAY," says Betty, 'WE'RE GOING TO HAVE A WOMAN PRESIDENT. Our progress has been slow but we'll get there yet. Look at the record the American Woman made in the last great war, when her wage-earner went to the front.

"Some day another crisis may come, and women will be waiting to take the place, not of an army, but of a president. Then a new name plate may grace the White House door—MADAM PRESIDENT, WALK IN!"

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I missed Les Farrington when he was in New York. And that's too bad, because Les doesn't get to New York very often. Why he doesn't I can not say, because he has a whole airline to play around with, and when a man with an entire fleet of ships at his disposal can't get from St. Paul to New York more than once or twice a year, that's something I am unable to figure out.

Unless, of course, he happens to dislike New York. And if that's true you can't hate him for that. You can't get mad at a guy for not liking a town. Not really, not the way you can hate a fellow for wearing a hat you don't like. Because towns are important only when you get tied up with them through people. Hats are another matter.

It must have been six months ago that I wrote Les a letter and asked him to notify me the next time he got to town. I thought maybe we could have some corned beef and cabbage together, maybe, or spend a pleasant afternoon talking. And he said he would. He wrote right back and said, "I'll call you the moment I check into my hotel."

But that moment wasn't a very happy one for me. That was the day I was laid by the heels by Ol' Man Bronchitis, and by the time I was back on the high road, he was back out there in St. Paul.

* * *

I'M certainly sorry I didn't get to see this tall (six-foot-five or is it six?) friendly fellow who's general traffic manager for Northwest Airlines. Traffic is his business. It's his baby, and I think you are going to be interested in a bit of philosophical reasoning he has put into his job. Farrington ought really to be an advertising man. For he reasons this way: "What is pleasing to the eye is pleasing to all of you."

So with this as a working basis he organized some 30 posts throughout the line and established local traffic executives. Only, he didn't choose Joe or Jim. With a crafty eye he chose 30 of the prettiest girls you ever saw. And he made them executives in their own right.

* * *

I KNOW about this because I was idling through Rockefeller Center this afternoon and ran smack into Loy Warwick, a Georgia boy who has tied his kite to this town. He said, "Son, I suppose I will have to introduce you to Karen Erickson. She's a farmer's daughter but don't let that fool you. She's the line's representative in New York, and Farrington's her boss."

I only had a couple of minutes, give or take a few seconds either way, but during that time I managed to possess myself of this vital data: Miss Erickson is not pretty: She is beautiful. She has raven hair and very dark eyes. She used to manage a hospital at Cando, North Dakota. Her home town is Edmore, N. D. She is single.

(Miss Jones, take a letter to Mr. Leslie B. Farrington, Municipal Airport, St. Paul, Minnesota. Dear Les—When are you coming back to New York? Please call me the moment you check into your hotel. Sick or well, I will be johnny-on-the-spot. There are some important matters I would like to talk over with you, and besides I think we ought to kick around some and see some of the town, if the traffic will bear it!)

DUFFY, WITH NO CAMPAIGN FOE, SPENT $9,410

Attorney General's Expense Account Largest of 17 Filed With Secretary.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy and his campaign committee spent $9,410 during the primary election campaign to promote his unopposed candidacy for the Democratic attorney general nomination, he reported today to Secretary of State William J. Kennedy.

Although Duffy had no competition, his expenditures were the largest among accounts of 17 candidates for various offices filed today.

Edward C. Turner, Columbus, unsuccessful candidate for nominational to the supreme court on the Republican ticket, listed expenditures of $2,254 while an additional $500 was spent on Turner's campaign by Nan A. Turner. Neither reported any contributions.

Duffy reported $2,550 expenditures and receipts of $3,395 in his own behalf. The "Duffy-for-attorney-general commiteee" listed expenditures of $6,860 and receipts of $6,898.

$591 For Photographs.

Expenses by Duffy included $591 for photographs, $750 for miscellaneous traveling and entertainment and most of the balance for printing and advertising. Large contributors included Neil Poline and Carl Nevile, Lima, $745 jointly; and Carol Spring, Dayton, $490.

Duffy's committee expenditures included $85 for dinners, luncheons and entertainment at the Columbus Athletic club, $288 for flowers, $956 for stenographers and $1,392 for miscellaneous traveling and entertainment.

Turner itemized approximately $625 of his $2,54 expenses and declared he was unable to account for the balance because his memorandum book was stolen with his baggage Aug. 6.

Other candidates, their contributions and expenditures, included:

Raymond Younger, Celina, state central committee, none.

William R. Foss, Coldwater, congressional representative, fourth district, $400 and $999.

Mildred Davis Hanold, Lima, state central committee, none and $33.

C. A. Rusler, Lima, congressional representative, fourth district, none and $953.

W. J. Schwenck, Bucyrus, judge of court of appeals, third district, none and $95

Fred R. Seibert, St. Mary's, state senator, 32nd district, none and none.

Karl Timmermeister, Wapakoneta, state central committee, none and $53.

Carl V. Weygandt, Lakewood, chief justice of the supreme court, none and $110.

Dudley A. White, Norwalk, congressional representative, 15th district, none and $137.

Loses Second Race.

The sun had dropped low over Akron airport, adjacent to Derby Downs, when Sonny lined up at the starting blocks with Bracewell, and Robert Sempsey, jr., of Pittsville, Pa

All three rolled nose-and-nose to the halfway mark where Bracewell pulled ahead with Wiley and Sempsey less than a car-length behind. Sempsey in the last 10 yards nosed out Sonny who finished in third place.

But Sonny "had a swell time" in the three days he was guest of The News-Journal in Akron. He said so while taking a shower bath in his hotel room, just before the championship banquet, the climax to a round of thrills and excitement since he arrived here Friday.

Sonny said the 111 other contestants went to ball games, movies, tours of the city and were feted every minute of their time.

Glad He Won One.

Sonny was glad to have won at least one race—he said he didn't feel ashamed to go back to Mansfield, because he had a "pretty good car."

At the banquet of champions last night at the Akron armory, each of the boys received a gold wrist watch and a racing diploma.

The M. E. Coyle trophy, three feet high, symbolic of the National Soap-Box championship, was presented to Berger.

HEARS REPORTS ON 6 ELECTIONS

Senate Committee Ready for Testimony on Complaints Checked by Probers.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaigns investigating committee meets tomorrow to receive reports from investigators on complaints from six states — Kentucky, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Illinois, and South Dakota. Already preliminary reports on these states have been received.

"I think the committee has had a healthy influence upon the senatorial races," said Chairman Morris Sheppard (D., Texas). "I believe our presence has had a deterring effect upon expenditures and irregularities."

Word was received from committee members Walsh (D) of Massachusetts, Harrison (D.) of Mississippi, and White (R) of Maine, that they would attend Tuesday's session with Sheppard. Senator O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming, the only other committee member, will be absent.

While committee investigators are gathering testimony on complaints of alleged irregularities in California, Georgia and Indiana senatorial races, it was not expected their reports would be ready for committee consideration tomorrow.

"We are going to keep close tab on the campaigns right up to election day in November and beyond that if necessary," Sheppard warned.

All except four of the 140 candidates to whom questionnaires on contributions and expenditures were sent, have returned them filled out, Sheppard said.

jury of character and class. How long the business of getting a jury will take is always problematical. It may take the better part of the opening week.

'Can't Believe It.'

Here is the Hon. James J Hines, leader of the eleventh assembly district for 26 years, unquestionably the most powerful individual in Tammany hall, a man who ruled as directly over a quarter of a million people as if he had been formally set up as dictator, dragged to court like a common malefactor — this man who even gave orders to judges, so the district attorney contends. Tammany never saw anything like it, and there are old timers going about today and shaking their heads and saying they just can't believe it.

The actors in this arresting and altogether thrilling legal drama are, first of all, his honor, Mr. Justice Pecora, Ferdinand Pecora, the same Pecora who was present as chief inquisitor at the Morgan banking quiz, and looked on when a press agent of colossal impudence put a she midget on the lap of J. P. Morgan.

Equally important is the prosecutor, Thomas E. Dewey, a young lawyer (he's only 36 now) who came here from Michigan 15 years ago to study singing. He owns a first rate baritone voice. He's artistic but that doesn't change the fact that he is as shrewd as a fox, a masterly technician at the law, and with a singular gift of persuasion with reluctant witnesses.

Dutch Schultz disappeared from the scene when Dewey was hot on his trail. The boss racketeer and three of his lieutenants had just been shot to death by the orders of some one who may have had compelling reasons to see Dutch out of this sinful world.

Schultz was gone but the rackets were running high, wide and handsome. Killings and mysterious disappearances were more common because Schultz underlings were liquidating each other

District Attorney Dewey went right after one of Schultz's big rackets, the restaurant racket — blackmailing restaurant keepers on threats of wrecking their places or throwing stench bombs or beating up the proprietors and waiters.

Racketeers 'Sing.'

Then and there Dewey established his famous "singing school." When a crook confesses in the underworld they say he "sings." The old term was "squeal." "Sing" is up to date stuff. For the first time Dewey was able to persuade men who lived every hour of their lives in abject terror to tell him the truth and repeat the truth on the witness stand in a courtroom.

Every time that Dewey dug into a major racket, the name of Hines came up somehow But the district attorney was a long time getting anything he regarded as substantial.

But Dewey kept pounding away and at length some of Schultz's underlings consented to sing The tune was exactly to Dewey's liking.

George Weinberg, Harry Schoenhaus and finally Dixie Davis, the lawyer for Schultz, the "mouthpiece" in underworld Argot, were among those who confessed. Abraham (Bo) Weinberg, Georgie's brother, must have bought a one-way ticket for somewhere, for he went away and never did come back.

TRACY STYERT TAKEN BY DEATH

City Service-Safety Director Stricken by Heart Attack in His Home Sunday.

the Democratic ranks since 1917 when he was first elected to city council during the regime of Mayor Henry G. Brunner. He was re-elected councilman-at-large in 1919 and served through 1923. In 1929 he was appointed by council to fill a vacancy and at the next general election in 1931 was re-elected. A part of that term he served as president pro tem of council and in November, 1933 was elected president of city council, serving through the next two years.

Lost Dem Mayor Nomination.

His only political defeat came in August, 1935 when he was an unsuccessful candidate for nomination as mayor in the primary election. On Jan. 1 of this year he became service-safety director, appointed by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, a friend and political contemporary of many years.

During his years of service in city council he headed a number of important committees, among them the finance and city parks committees.

He was the grandson of Bartholomew Styert, a native of France who settled in Weller township, Richland county in the early years of the last century. His grandfather was one of the early sheriffs of this county.

Mr. Styert was born April 21, 1884 in the old Styert home on West Fifth street, the son of Rollo O. and Sadie Dickson Styert. In 1892 his father established the Styert meat market at 153 Newman street which later was moved to its present location, 113 Newman street.

Early Responsibilities.

Tracy began work for his father when he was 14 years old. In 1901, his father was electrocuted while turning on an electric light switch, and the 17-year-old boy assumed the responsibility of the head of his family. He took over the business and the care of his mother and a younger brother and sister.

He continued to carry on the business until the latter part of last year when he sold it to Willis Linn.

In 1917 he married Miss Elizabeth Green, who survives him He is also survived by a brother, Bryan D., and a sister, Miss Chloe Styert, both of this city, and his nephew, Earle Green who was raised as a foster-son.

Flag At Half Mast.

The body was removed to the Finefrock chapel where it will remain until the hour of burial.

Fraternally he was associated with the Elks lodge and the Independent Order of Forresters.

Today the flag on the City building was flying at half mast and every employe at the building, from the mayor to the janitor, was sincerely grieved over his death. His quiet friendliness had made him hundreds of friends throughout the city, while his sincerity and devotion to his work had won the admiration of citizens in both political parties

Words of high praise for him as a man and as a city official came from associates at City building today, as well as expressions of grief at the loss of a friend. Scarcely an associate could speak of his death today without evidence of being deeply touched and grieved.

He was one of the few men, they agreed, who was particular about how a job was being done without being dictatorial or nagging.

"Tracy Styert had a top notch diploma in the school of experience," Mayor Hunter said today, "both in business and in politics. I doubt if there is a man anywhere who can say anything but good of him. He had given his entire life to his job; there was nothing too trivial to gain his attention, no problem too difficult for him to try to work it out. His office was open to every citizen in Mansfield. Mansfield will never receive a more conscientious service from any of its servants than he gave. From the personal angle, I feel as if I had lost a brother. Tracy and I were very close and I still can't realize that he is gone."

City Auditor Paul Kelley was another who expressed the general opinion of Mr. Styert's associates. "His death is a blow to the administration," he said, "and anyone who has been closely associated with Tracy must consider it a privilege to have known him and worked with him."

City building will be closed all day Wednesday as a mark of respect to him, Mayor Hunter said today.

BRITAIN FIGHTS CATTLE DISEASE

Opens $12,000,000 4-Year War on Tuberculosis.

LONDON— (AP) —Britain, warring against disease in livestock, recently opened a $12,000,000 four-year offensive to combat the enemy which yearly takes a toll of $70,000,000 worth of animals.

Nearly 1,000 veterinary surgeons, enrolled in a national veterinary service, will be directed from offices in Britain's 78 principal cities and towns.

Tubercular cattle will receive special attention.

Britain, France Alert for Trouble.

LONDON—(INS)—Uneasiness in Czechoslovakia over the German military maneuvers is growing rapidly, according to reports in London today, but British and French statesmen refused to become alarmed although they remained alert for trouble

All signs pointed to a waning of the week-end war scare that rocked Europe in most capitals except Prague. Despite the huge scale of the Reich war games, most diplomatic circles firmly declined to exaggerate their political importance.

It was believed that one reason for the better feeling in London and Paris was a report that Marshal Italo Balbo, on a visit to Germany, had transmitted to Chancellor Hitler the advice of Premier Mussolini against taking any sudden, drastic action.

London morning newspapers, however, reported that Czelchslovakia is tense with fear, despite assurances from Berlin that the German military maneuvers are no more significant than any other war games.

Citing the renewed nervousness, the News-Chronicle attributed it in part to a Rome announcement that Italy is ready to close all Alpine passes along her northern border in the event of an emergency.

CITY ON AIR

Mayor, Judge Give Talks on 'Public Square' Broadcast.

Mansfield dial twisters sat at their radios at 6:30 p. m Saturday and heard the "public square" broadcast which came over the WGAR Cleveland air lanes, but which emanated from Central park, Mansfield.

Favorable weather conditions made a good reception possible for the broadcast, and the voices of the singers and two speakers, Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Judge C. H. Huston, president of the Chamber of Commerce, came over the air distinctly. Each talked five minutes, the mayor giving a brief history of the city and Judge Huston telling of its nationally-known manufacturing products.

The musical program was provided by Edith Fletcher Jameson, soprano; Leo Hans, tenor, and the Singers club, a woman's choral group.

200 AT PICNIC

SHELBY—More than 200 persons attended the 14th annual picnic sponsored by former employes of the Shelby Lamp Works at Seltzer park Sunday. At one time all residents in Shelby, a majority of the group yesterday came from Cleveland, Canton and Detroit.

2-VOTE ERROR LARGEST FOUND IN FINAL COUNT

Official Check of Primary Ballots Reveals No Serious Mistakes.

Remarkably accurate tabulation of the votes cast in the primary election last Tuesday was revealed today in the county board of election's official count which showed a variance of not more than two votes from the unofficial count for any office or issue.

Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the election board, explained that the differences were largely accounted for by defaced ballots which were held out by precinct officials who questioned their legality.

School Bonds Gain Two.

Mansfield's $550,000 school bond issue, although defeated, gained two votes in the official tabulation. The figures showed an increase to 5,546 for the issue and an unchanged 3,576 against it.

The slight changes did not affect the standing of any of the candidates in the county, district, or state.

10,000 Frolic at Chippewa Picnic of Westinghouse

About 10,000 employes of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company and their families attended the 18th annual company picnic held Saturday at Chippewa Lake park.

The picnic was an all-day event, and was one of the largest ever held according to company officials. A program of athletic events was held between 10 and 11 a. m , and contests and games were played between 2 and 3 p. m.

A feature of the athletic program was a kittenball game between the "Toughies," captained by Robert Shade, and the "Sissies" captained by J. Rachel. The game was won by the "Toughies." Throughout the day music was furnished by Joe Dorner and his "Little German" band.

Arrangements for the picnic were in charge of a general committee made up of L. Winskey, chairman; C. E. Shiplet, C W. Hoffman, L. S. Houck and B. Koontz.

CHAPTER 16

NOEL WENT to the Peacock feeling more discouraged than she had at any time. As long as it seemed she was getting a little further along in her plan to show Julian that she did have stamina, and could stick out any situation, no matter how seemingly intolerable, she felt that everything was worthwhile. But she hadn't convinced Julian at all He still refused to take her seriously. And she had gotten herself in a position from which it seemed she couldn't extricate herself.

It was awful—having to go back to Nick's when she had thought she had finished with the place forever. She didn't believe Nick would make himself obnoxious again, at least not soon, but he would keep his eyes on her just the same, for all the world like a black ugly spider watching for a chance to ensnare an unwary fly.

It was the oldest comparison in the world, of course, Noel knew, but nothing else would quite express the situation Nick with his black mustache, his pale eyes and coal black hair was like nothing else quite so much as a spider. She loathed him and the entire place. If she hadn't made it impossible, she was right at the point where she would gladly quit and give up the whole idea.

* * *

But Noel knew she wouldn't do that. She had gone into this thing with her eyes open, and she wasn't beaten yet She knew she'd have all sorts of ups-and-downs, problems to meet. And she was learning so very many things. First about herself, and just how right Julian had been. She had had more money than she knew what to do with. And she hadn't used it for any purpose except to toss around for any transient pleasure she thought might prove diverting for the moment.

She hadn't known that everywhere in the world there were girls like Laurie, gallant and brave, fighting an unequal battle against the world, craving beauty and the finer things of life, which girls in Noel's position took for granted.

Once Laurie had said with a wistful smile. "I saw an orchid today in a florist's window. It was so beautiful it made me want to cry."

Noel had thought a lot about those words of Laurie's.

She reached the Peacock at last and hurried to change into the hateful brocade gown. When she came out ready to begin dancing, there were not many people on the floor. But she was besieged at once by several men who claimed her first dance. It required tact to decide which one should be first, for Noel knew she could not afford to antagonize any of the men who patronized the Peacock.

* * *

One of the men asking for her first dance was a young man she hadn't seen before. Of course she danced with strange men every night, and three minutes later, she couldn't have told whether they had pink hair or green eyes. The only thing that mattered was whether or not they could dance without stepping on her small, tired feet. If they were able to dance even half way, she was grateful.

But this young man stood out from all the others because of a certain refinement and ease of manner. He wore a tweed business suit, with a crisp white linen shirt and a black four-in-hand tie. His hair was blond, and brushed back from his forehead in a neat shining wave. Noel looked at his hair a little critically, wondering if those regular waves had been put there by a hairdresser. But aside from his hair, there was nothing of the dandy or fop about him. He was entirely masculine, with an air of being quite capable of coping with any problem which might arise.

Dancing with him was a delight. Noel could almost wish she didn't have to dance with anyone else during the entire evening. But of course she would have to—Luigi discouraged too much dancing with the same man, and as usual his pale eyes were watching.

So Noel permitted herself one dance with the stranger, and then sat down at a table with him. He ordered cocktails instead of the usual beer. As he lifted his glass, his grayish-green eyes sought hers questioningly. "What on earth is a girl like you doing in a place like this?"

Noel smiled at him over the rim of her glass. "One must do something," she answered nonchalantly. "A girl has to eat, you know."

"But why this place?" the young man persisted. "There must be a dozen others, more respectable, catering to a better clientele."

Noel shook her head. She had tried other dance places. "There seems to be a hundred girls for every job like this," she said. "It's a sort of—well, easy way to make a living."

"But not for you," the answer came pointedly. Then he leaned over the table and said earnestly, "Don't you know that your dancing is exceptional and that you yourself are very lovely?"

* * *

At that moment Nick came over with one of the men who had claimed Noel's first dance. The music was beginning. Noel rose at once, and suffered the other man to put his arms around her and off they danced. The blond young man lifted his hand in a graceful salute.

A few minutes later he cut in. Noel knew Nick wouldn't like that, but she made up her mind she wasn't going to let it worry her.

"My name is Chris Landers," the young man said. "What's yours?"

Noel told him. Then he said, "Listen, Noel, I'm going to see you again. I like you, and I'm crazy about dancing with you, and I have an idea—", but he didn't finish for just then the music stopped with an unusual abruptness. Noel knew Nick had had it stopped.

Chris led her to a chair. Then he said, "Good night, Noel, and goodby until I see you again. It won't be long."

She looked after his tall graceful figure as he made his way to the entrance.

* * *

Then she was being claimed for other dances. The evening seemed endless after Chris had gone. Each partner she had afterward seemed determined to monopolize her dances. She wasn't even allowed a breathing spell in between them. But she did get back to the table where she and Chris had sat and finished the cocktail she had left there. If it hadn't been for that, she didn't know how she would have finished out the time until the Peacock was ready to close.

At last it was time to leave for home. Noel made her way tiredly to the dressing- room. All the girls were chattering and laughing but they stopped when Noel came in, most of them regarding her with cold looks They were jealous of the favors Nick tried to show Noel, even though Noel had not really accepted any favor that was not tendered the other girls as well.

Noel sank into a chair for a moment or so. Her head was beginning to ache rather dreadfully.

Maida wasn't here tonight, and Noel missed her. Maida was such a gentle, timid little thing. Noel was convinced that she was sincere in her proffered friendship, and it had seemed so pleasant to have her company on the way home.

* * *

After a few moments, most of the girls were gone and Noel rose from the chair, feeling a little better. She slipped off the brocade gown and put on her blouse and suit skirt. It was getting too warm for the coat.

The dressing room door opened and Noel looked up with a feeling of dread. So many times Nick had opened that door. But it was only Pansy, the colored maid, whose skin glistened like black satin and who was seldom around when she was needed.

She came over and said in a whisper to Noel, "Master Nick say he wants to see you 'bout something very 'portant."

One of the girls who was still in the dressing room said with a sneer as she slipped her arm in that of another girl's. "Ain't it something to stand in with the boss?"

Noel paid no attention to her. She said to Pansy, "Tell Mr. Luigi that I'm not interested in anything he has to say."

With that she walked out.

MARION GIRL BRIDE OF ROBERT B. GORDON

Miss Ardell Bohler Married to Mansfielder In Formal Church Ceremony Saturday Afternoon; Couple to Live Here.

ONE OF THE colorful August weddings was a ceremony which was performed Saturday, and which united in marriage a Marion girl and a young man of Mansfield. The bride, Miss Ardell Marie Bohler, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bohler, Marion. The bridegroom is Robert B. Gordon, 600 Park avenue west.

Miss Bohler was given in marriage by her father at the Salem Evangelical and Reformed church at Marion at 3:30 p. m., Aug. 13. The church altar before which Rev. H. C. Ahrens read the ceremony was banked with ferns and palms and two large baskets of white gladioli. Two candelabra lighted the altar.

The organist, Alfreda Horn, played a number of nuptial and classical selections. Her numbers were "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "At Dawning," "Oh, Promise Me," "Liebstraum," "I Love You Truly," "Shepherd's Idyll," "The Old Refrain," "Las Estrellita," "The Nightingale and the Rose," "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and "Wedding March" from A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Long Train.

The bride was attired in a silk venetian lace gown over satin with a six-foot train. The dress was made in the princess silhouette with a sweetheart neckline. She wore a miniature tricorne head-dress with a flowing finger-tip length veil. Her bouquet was made in the cascade style of white roses and gardenias and gypsophila. A diamond brooch, the gift of the bridegroom, was her only jewelry.

Mrs. Gordon was attended by Virginia Mitchell, Marion, maid of honor, and two bridesmaids from Marion, Louise Foreman and Virginia Wilson. The maid of honor wore a period dress of fragonard rose taffeta with a porto wine velvet trim made with puffed sleeves and an off-the-shoulder neckline. She carried Johanna Hill roses with lavender larkspur in a cascade bouquet.

Bridesmaids Dress Alike.

The two bridesmaids wore identical gowns of cyclamen moire with porto wine velvet trim. The dresses were made with short basque jackets and puffed sleeves and collarless cardigan necklines.

Their hats were miniatures made in the Louis XIV style of porto wine velvet. They carried lavender gladioli blossoms and gypsophila made in the cascade style.

James A. Gordon, Cleveland, served as best man, and Robert A. Oswald, Cleveland, and George C. McClure, Galion, were the ushers. Mrs. Bohler wore a navy blue lace dress with matching accessories and a gardenia corsage for her daughter's wedding.

Hotel Reception.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the ballroom of the Hotel Harding. Mrs. William Guthery, Mrs. Robert Conley, Mrs. Harry M. Robbins and Miss Ethel Richardson served at the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon are now on a motor trip through Canada. They will visit at Quebec and Saratoga, N. Y. For traveling the bride wore a sheer silk costume suit in black with an unusual jacket effect and a miniature sailor hat. After Sept. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will be at home at 543 Crescent road.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gordon attended Miami university at Oxford. He is employed by the William Bingham company of Cleveland and she has been in the accounting department of the Marion Reserve Power company.

Mansfield guests present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. John McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moorehead, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rexford Small, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Marquis, Miss Ethel Richardson and Lloyd Pfahler.

Other Guests.

Guests from other cities were Mrs. Grace Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. John Kunkle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kunkle, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Newton, Jack Newton, Mr. and Mrs. William McHugh, Mrs. Charles Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oswald, Mrs. Jack Sweeney and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Gordon, all of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wild and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weller, Barberton; Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Stall, Talmadge; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sloban and Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon, Bedford; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ebert and Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Longacre, Medina; Mrs. Marie Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. Blaine McGaughey, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fox, Portsmouth; Mrs. Joseph Rinnert, Los Angeles, Calif.; Miss Doris Davis, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Earl Prosser and Mr. and Mrs. George McClure, Galion, and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Guthery, LaRue.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

The approaching marriage of Miss Geraldine Callihan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Callihan, 110 West Third street, to Oscar Jay Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Banks, Pittsburgh, Pa., was announced early today. The ceremony will be performed at the bride's home Aug. 28.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Chic Simplicity

Courtesy Bonwit Teller, New York

By Central Press

Elegant simplicity is the keynote of this little frock which was inspired, strange to say, by a renoyer, titled, "Polly Tucker, Merchant." The dress is just such as the chic young heroine of the book would choose.

The book (in case you are curious) is about a girl who makes fashions her career and is successful.

The dress has many possibilities for changes of accessories. It has fine details, such as the sleek set-in waistline and wide corselet suede belt. Its simple high neckline and short sleeves with just the right fullness at the shoulders, are other good points.

It may be obtained in wool or acetate crepe, in black with red belt, Scotch mist with wine, green with rust, rust wtih green or brown with chartreuse.

POSTPONE SESSION.

The meeting of the Happytime club which was scheduled for Thursday has been advanced to Saturday because of the Farmer's picnic. Mrs. Dwight McCullough will entertain at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. E. Stough, Millsborough road.

Country Club Has Gay Nineties Dance Saturday Evening

Gaiety predominated Saturday night at the Westbrook Country club when members met for a Gay Ninties dinner dance at the club. The grill room was appropriately decorated in a motif in keeping with the period of 1890. Signs and posters decorated the walls of the room which was arranged to represent an old-fashioned tavern.

The Westinghouse orchestra directed by R. O. Richards provided tuneful dance melodies for the 75 couples. Many members appeared in costumes reminiscent of the period.

Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Mrs. Paul Sturges, Mrs. John Tucker, Shreveport, La., Donald Black and William Peppard. Mr. and Mrs. Sturges were in charge of the affair.

Sunday afternoon there will be another in the series of musicales at the club. Dr. and Mrs. Sharles L. Shafer will receive. Tea will be served between the hours of 4:30 and 6:30 p. m. and th Charlet Cellars trio will perform.

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Don't take chances on products you know nothing about or rely on temporary relief when there's need of a good general system tonic like time-proven Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots.

Let Pinkham's Compound help build up more physical resistance and thus aid in calming jangly nerves, lessen distress from female functional disorders and make life worth living.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Pinkham's—over 1,000,000 women have written in reporting glorious benefits—it MUST BE GOOD!

EXCHANGE VOWS AT QUIET HOME CEREMONY

Miss Ruth Elizabeth Boehm, Charles Frederick Huck United In Marriage Early Sunday Morning At Bride's Home.

IMMEDIATE families were present Sunday morning for the home wedding which united in marriage Miss Ruth Elizabeth Boehm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Boehm, 410 church street, Galion, and Charles Frederick Huck, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Huck, 197 South Mulberry street.

The single ring ceremony was read at 9:30 a. m. at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor of the First Reformed church of Galion. The bride and her only attendant descended the stairs and walked slowly to the altar before the fireplace in the living room to the strains of nuptial music played by the bridegroom's mother.

Flower Banked Altar.

Banked ferns and bouquets of blue budlia and peach and white galdioli formed the altar. For her marriage, Miss Boehm wore a floor-length gown of acqua lace with short, full sleeves, sweetheart neckline and a sash of peach ribbon looped at the waistline and extending to the hem of the gown at the back. She wore a corsage of Queen Mary roses and Picardy gladioli and a necklace and gold cross belonging to her mother.

Her attendant, Miss Ruby E. Myers, Galion, wore a floor-length dress of peach lace with a bolero jacket fashioned with a high neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her corsage was of Johanna Hili roses and minuet gladioli. Miss Myers is the bride's cousin. William Huck, jr., a brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home to 14 guests. The table was centered with a tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. At either end were bowls of pink and bronze pompoms, and similar flowers, entwined with fern, surrounded the cake. A bowl of snapdragons in the same shade decorated the buffet.

At Home Here.

The couple left for a week's trip through the eastern states, and upon their return they will be at home at a new house on Massa avenue. For traveling Mrs. Huck wore a black and white pin stripe crepe dress with a matching jacket and accessories of white.

The bride, who is a graduate of Galion high school and attended the Mansfield Commercial institute, has been employed as a stenographer at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company until the past few months. Mr. Huck is a graduate of Mansfield high school and is also an employe of the Westinghouse company.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. William Huck, sr., and Mr. and Mrs. William Huck, jr., Ruth and Mary Huck and Charles Heuise, all of Mansfield; Martha Zimmerman, Columbus, and Velma Myers, Piqua.
